ACTRESS, HUSBAND IN RIFT

The marital relations of Helen Twelvetrees, blonde screen actress, and her broker-husband, Frank Woody, appeared strained today as friends reported she had left their Hollywood home and was living at a hotel. The apparent rift was said to have started while Miss Twelvetrees and her husband were on a tour of Australia. He returned to Hollywood alone while his wife came on another boat.

Condon, In Hot Note, Says He's Ready For Hoffman's Questions

NEW YORK, March 24.—(UP)—In 300 sharp, telegraphed words to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon agreed today to submit to new questioning concerning his part in the Lindbergh case.

PLANS CHANGED FOR LAUNCHING FARM PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—Discarding earlier intentions of holding regional and state meetings during the next 10 days, AAA officials today planned local meetings in almost all counties during the first week of April to present fully to farmers the new $440,000,000 soil conservation program. Members of the AAA Washington staff are enroute to points throughout the country to explain the regulations. Although the idea of general regional meetings was abandoned, one such gathering still is on schedule for Salt Lake City within a few days. No definite date has been set. Officials were said to have decided it would be simpler, less costly and more effective to explain the program to as many field workers as possible here, and send staff members in the field to explain the program to those field agents who were unable to visit Washington. In the case of the far western region, however, it was felt that the regional meeting would be more effective.

WHITTAKER DEATH PROBE LAUNCHED

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(UP)—As the county grand jury opened investigation into the holdup slaying of Mrs. Ethel Whittaker today, police claimed to have found evidence that her husband showed concern over her $10,000 insurance policies immediately after the shooting. Samuel T. Whittaker, 60, theater organist, the husband, is being held jointly with James Fagan Culver, 23, itinerant waiter, who said Whittaker hired him to stage a fake holdup in which Mrs. Whittaker was slain. He later said he was "hired" outright.

KENTUCKY FEUDIST HANGED FOR MURDER

INDIANAPOLIS, March 24.—(UP)—George W. Barrett, one-eyed Kentucky feudist who shared his last supper with the jail cat, was hanged early today for the murder of a federal agent he mistook for a feudist. Clad in white pajamas and confident he would "go to heaven," Barrett was executed in a tent erected in the open jailyard to hide the sight from downtown strollers. Barrett was the fourth of his family to die as the result of a bitter Kentucky feud. Three of them died "with their boots on." Barrett, seeking vengeance, mistook Nelson B. Klein for a feudist and killed him in a gun battle at College Corner, Ind., Aug. 16, 1935.

G. O. P. Centers On Mid-Westerner

PARTY LINES UP TO FIGHT NEW DEALERS

Republicans Set to Defend Business and Initiative Against Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—The Republican party is moving today toward nomination of a mid-westerner for president and a campaign in which the GOP will undertake to defend business and private initiative against the New Deal. Eastern soundings demonstrate that big business along the Atlantic seaboard is willing and anxious to back a prairie Republican. The consensus of observers is that Gov. Alf M. Landon is considered in the east to be the "most available" Republican candidate.

Landon Looks Best That means the men who write the checks for campaign funds believe Landon has a better chance to defeat President Roosevelt than, for instance, Frank Knox, of Chicago. If Knox made a strong finish in the April and May pre-convention weeks the hopes of eastern Landon boosters would turn willingly to the man from Chicago. There would be less eastern enthusiasm for Senator William E. Borah.

Northeastern Atlantic seaboard opposition to the New Deal is less concerned today with the identity of the Republican nominee than with the urgent desire to get Mr. Roosevelt out of the White House. Political strategists in both parties recognize the business political alignment which has been developing for about two years. Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic

LANDON WON'T BE ACTIVE IN PRIMARY RACE

TOPEKA, Kans., March 24.—(UP)—Gov. Alfred M. Landon said today he would not participate in any primary election and will neither recognize nor repudiate national convention delegates pledged to his nomination. The announcement came after his return from a 10-day vacation and followed telephone conferences with his California supporters last night. It meant his California boosters may enter his name in the May 5 primary but he will decline to take an active part in the campaign then.

"My decision," he said, "was motivated by two reasons. First, I may call a special session of the Kansas legislature to enact a program to fit the federal social security laws. This will take almost my entire time between now and June 1. Secondly, it is my sincere wish to see the Republicans this year nominate the man who stands the best chance of winning. I feel it the responsibility of the man who has the interest of the party at heart to so conduct himself that the party will present a harmonious front." He added he has no speeches scheduled for the near future. "My course in California is identical with my course in all other primary states," Landon said. "Where friendly candidates for election as national convention delegates have entered primaries, I have done nothing to prevent their working for me. Neither have I encouraged their action. The California situation is the same that prevails in New Jersey and other states. I intend to maintain this policy." He indicated the remainder of his campaign for the G. O. P. presidential nomination might be left in the hands of his workers.

Alameda Navy Air Base Is Approved

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—The senate naval affairs committee today reported favorably a bill authorizing the construction of a naval air station at Alameda, Calif. Location of the air station is south of the Alameda mole and a portion of the ground is now being used by the Pan-American Airline for clipper ships flying between the United States and the Philippines.

GERMANY REJECTS PROPOSALS

FAILURE TO AGREE ENDS LEAGUE MEET

Next Session Scheduled in Geneva; International Police Plan Fades

PARIS, March 24.—(UP)—Germany has refused proposals of the Locarno powers that international troops police the Rhine-land zone pending a settlement of the European crisis, the French foreign office learned unofficially from London today.

LONDON, March 24.—(UP)—The council of the League of Nations adjourned indefinitely today because of the failure of Germany and Italy so far to accept the Locarno accord on the Rhine-land reached by Britain, France and Belgium.

The council will meet again in Geneva on a date not yet set. The Locarno powers meanwhile will try to reach an agreement. Joachim von Ribbentrop, representing Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, arrived by air from Berlin today, presumably bringing Hitler's reply to the Locarno proposals, and it was believed to be in the negative.

The council's decision to adjourn was prompted largely by the impatience of the non-Locarno powers, who did not wish to remain in London until Italy and Germany can be induced to accept the accord.

During adjournment, the Locarno powers will continue negotiations for new European security arrangements. The negotiations are expected to be difficult. Germany is almost certain to reject parts of the present accord, and Italy might not accept it until assured that sanctions against her will be lifted.

PROVISIONS OF TRIPARTITE AGREEMENT ARE REVEALED
ROME, March 24.—(UP)—The new tripartite agreement signed by Italy, Austria and Hungary was revealed today to bind each signatory to undertake no important

Canadian Court Clears S. F. Man

MONTREAL, March 24.—(UP)—Joseph Carri, San Francisco fruit dealer, who was extradited to Canada several months ago to face a 12-year-old murder charge, was acquitted by a king's bench today at the conclusion of one of the speediest murder trials on record here.

Carri was charged with participation in a holdup in Montreal in which a collection car of the bank of Hochelaga was robbed of $142,000 and two men killed. Carri was tried and acquitted for the murder of Henri Cloux, driver of the bank car.

SENATE PASSES FARM BILL
WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—The senate today passed the $295,000,000 agriculture department appropriation bill after increasing the amounts provided for flood prevention work and for eradication of cattle diseases. The bill now goes to conference with the house, which passed it Feb. 28.

5 DEVIL'S ISLAND REFUGEES HOPE FOR WELCOME IN HAITI

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, March 24.—(UP)—Five refugees from Devil's Island penal colony in French Guiana were believed rowing along the Venezuelan coast today on their way to Haiti. Sheltered here for four months after their escape from the dread French colony, the five were towed seven miles out to sea from the island Sunday night and left to row their own boat along the edge of the Caribbean to their new home. Efforts of the police to get rid of their unwelcome guests were delayed because of bad weather, which made it inadvisable to send the refugees reluctantly on their way. The five had warm clothes, money and provisions for 21 days given them here. They were last seen rowing valiantly across the gulf toward Venezuela, 29 miles away. The men who escaped are Henri

Charlie Can't Laugh Off Latest Wedding Rumor

Of many pictures made of Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard during their constant association in the last four years, this is the latest. It was made as they visited the Kobuki theater in Tokyo during the long far eastern cruise that is expected to culminate in their marriage. The Japanese actor in costume, at left, seems to have entertained the couple greatly.

MILLIONS KEEP EYE ON TICKET IN BIG 'SWEEP'

DUBLIN, March 24.—(UP)—Pretty Irish girls dressed in American costumes drew from a great drum in the concert hall of the Mansion House today the names of horses that represented the hope of millions of Americans and people of all continents for sudden wealth.

The names were those of entrants in the Grand National Steeplechase, to be run Friday at Aintree, England, whose performance over the heart-breaking course will determine winners of the 48 major prizes in the Irish hospitals sweepstake which was the occasion of the draw.

At the luncheon interval, when 420 tickets had been drawn on 39 horses, 192 tickets had gone to the United States, 142 to Europe and nine to Central and South America.

The great drum in which were the counterfoils was painted with the Stars and Stripes; scenery depicted buildings at Washington and well known skyscrapers; the girls were dressed in American costumes—as red Indians, Uncle Sam, movie stars. This was in deference to realization that—since Great Britain outlawed the sweep as a drain on the country, most of the millions come from the United States.

The prize fund was to make 14 major units of 100,000 pounds ($500,000) each. The remainder was divided into 10 residual prizes of 5375 pounds 3 shillings ($26,877) each. Every person whose ticket draws the name of a horse is assured of at least a $3570 prize. One hundred

Hollywood Life Soft, Says Guild Prexy

NEW YORK, March 24.—(UP)—Greta Garbo and Joan Crawford couldn't "hold a scene" on the legitimate stage because they don't know how, Sidney Howard, scenario writer, playwright and dramatist guild president, told the American Academy of Dramatic Arts graduating class.

Howard outlined the difference between success in Hollywood and the legitimate stage. He compared the "easy life of swimming pools and Spanish patios" in California with the succession of "headaches" on the stage. Choosing from movie names at random, Howard said great film "names" didn't mean they were great actors or actresses.

SLAYER DIES ON GALLOWS FRIDAY

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., March 24.—(UP)—His long legal fight and a desperate escape attempt equally unavailing, George Hall, condemned for the slaying of State Highway Patrolman Steve Kent and Lester Quisley, Yreka garage man, will be hanged on Folsom prison's gallows Friday.

Speedily sentenced to death after a comparatively short superior court trial, Hall delayed execution through appeals to virtually every high court, including the U. S. supreme court. A few weeks ago, his wife attempted to smuggle guns to him inside the prison, presumably in an escape plot. Hall shot the two men March 10, 1933.

Americans Missing As Reds Advance

PEIPING, China, March 24.—(UP)—Unconfirmed reports said today that communists had captured Hungtung, in Shansi province, where Claude Thomas, his wife and their two children, of Blackney, Pa., were stationed as missionaries. Whereabouts of the Thomases at the time of the reported capture were unknown. Hungtung, an important center, had been cut off by the communists, operating under Gen. Mao Tse-tung, for several days. The American embassy received word indirectly last Thursday that the family had not been harmed.

DIRECTOR'S DAUGHTER ELOPES

NEW YORK, March 24.—(UP)—Miss Beverly Parker, 17-year-old daughter of Albert Parker, Hollywood motion picture director, and Joseph Paterno Jr., 19, eloped today and were married at Armonk, N. Y.

LOSS IN FLOOD AREA REACHES TWO BILLIONS

By United Press
RIVERS that for 16 days have surged wildly over parts of 16 states exhausted their force in their lower reaches today. Their recession uncovered for the first time the full picture of destruction seldom equaled in American disasters. Official figures obtained from coroners, police and sheriffs established a confirmed death list of 174. At least 116 more were missing.

Unofficial estimates of property damage totaled $275,000,000. Sources of these estimates included governors, mayors, WPA engineers, and state highway departments. The total economic loss staggered imagination. Some industrialists said it would pass $2,000,000,000. Counting the property damage wrought by the floods directly, it is today.

The jurors—seven men and five women—moved to a room on the third floor of the courthouse and resumed deliberations on the fate of David Lamson, Stanford graduate charged with killing his wife. The attitude of the jury and that of court attendants indicated the trial would end today whether or not the jurors reached a verdict. There was no official explanation for a light-heartedness on the part of the jurors, who on other days since they took the case Friday afternoon had been truculent and tired in their brief public appearances. The jury has been out for 98 hours.

SEN. BORAH DEFENDS SMALL MERCHANTS

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah carried his anti-monopoly fight into senate committee hearings today with a charge that if independent merchants are driven from business large interests will bleed consumers. A senate judiciary sub-committee was hearing testimony from Dr. Malcolm McNair of the Harvard business school in connection with the Borah-Van Nuys price discrimination bill, when Borah intervened.

McNair said the salvation of the capitalist system depends on getting goods and merchandise to the consumer at lower and lower prices. Legislation affecting that situation should be studied with great care, he said.

Comedian Slashes Throat With Razor

MEDFORD, Mass., March 24.—(UP)—Paul T. McCullough, 52, member of the stage, screen and radio comedy team of Clark and McCullough, was near death at a hospital today after slashing his throat with a razor in a barber shop. McCullough, en route to McLean hospital yesterday, stopped at a Medford square barber shop and was about to put the razor away when the actor snatched it. He slashed his throat and the barber's wrist.

WIND, SNOW RAIN BRING DESTRUCTION

Hail Tornado Hits Texas; Dust Spreads As Far East as Chicago

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—(UP)—Tornadoes, dust storms, snow, hail and rain today in central United States brought death and destruction on the one hand and renewed hopes to farmers on the other. Twisting winds killed four persons in southwest Missouri and one in Tennessee, causing property damage in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Dust spouting skyward from the six-state dust bowl spread over the middle west as far as Chicago.

Tornado Drives Hail A tornado driving hailstones with the force of bullets caused nearly $1,000,000 damage in east Texas, heart of the world's greatest flush oil pool. No one was reported injured, however.

Brightening the picture were reports of heavy snow in southeastern Colorado and western Kansas where fields had lain parched for years. Torrential rains swept the eastern portion of Texas, driven by high winds that crippled communication lines, damaged orchards and crops and battered houses and other property.

Wind shifts in the dust bowl cleared the air above that region but swept the yellow clouds south to Galveston and north and east across the Mississippi. Moisture in the Colorado and Kansas segments of the bowl was sufficient, farmers believed, to "wet down" the mellow soil and keep it in place for a time.

The dead in Missouri, where a tornado ravaged a 50-mile area, are today.

Mrs. Jess Elmore, 70, of Nian-gua; Bert Sell, 23, Nian-gua; Italy Keeling, 23, Rader, and Henry Elmore, 42, Oakland. E. B. Shelton, 35, of Dallas, was killed when lightning struck a Memphis hotel during a tornado. Strong winds and beating rain leveled farm buildings throughout the Stuttgart, Ark., area. Unofficial estimates place the damage close to $30,000.

STILL NO VERDICT BY LAMSON JURORS

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 24.—(UP)—The Lamson jury, still deadlocked, returned from lunch at 1:30 p. m. today.

The jurors—seven men and five women—moved to a room on the third floor of the courthouse and resumed deliberations on the fate of David Lamson, Stanford graduate charged with killing his wife. The attitude of the jury and that of court attendants indicated the trial would end today whether or not the jurors reached a verdict. There was no official explanation for a light-heartedness on the part of the jurors, who on other days since they took the case Friday afternoon had been truculent and tired in their brief public appearances. The jury has been out for 98 hours.

COMMODITY EXCISE TAX RECOMMENDED

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(UP)—The house ways and means sub-committee drafting a tax bill agreed today to recommend to the full committee a series of excise taxes on agricultural commodities designed to raise $221,000,000 in additional revenue.

With this agreement, the sub-committee which has been considering the new $1,137,000,000 revenue program since March 3, adjourned subject to the call of the chair. Chairman Samuel B. Hill, D. Wash., said the groups report for the full committee would be completed within a day or two.

4 DIE IN PLANE CRASH
ROME, March 24.—(UP)—An Italian airplane crashed on taking off on the northern Ethiopian front, and its crew of four were killed, a war communique said today. The military situation was unchanged on either southern or northern fronts, the communique reported.

G.O.P. CENTERS ON CANDIDATE FROM MID-WEST

National committee and Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican National committee disagree, however, on the extent to which anti-Roosevelt sentiment has descended through the business scale from the top toward the bottom. Parley contends only "big business," the so-called vested interests of many a hot campaign, are aligned against Mr. Roosevelt and that the small business man still is the friend of the New Deal.

Fletcher believes the business community generally will smile Mr. Roosevelt next November. Typical of this confidence was a sentence appearing in this week in the national committee's mimeographed introduction to one of Fletcher's statements. The statement assailed Mr. Roosevelt's relief message to congress in which he contended business must do more toward ending unemployment. The Republican high command interpreted that as an attack on business and in circulating Fletcher's reply, explained:

"Mr. Fletcher's statement was frankly a defense of business in the case of Roosevelt versus business."

BAIL JUMPER HELD TO SUPERIOR COURT

Wanted in Lancaster, Mo. to serve a two-year term for grand theft of lambs, according to warrants on which he was arrested at Newport Beach Saturday, W. J. Watson, 47, was arraigned before Justice Kenneth Morrison this morning. Preliminary hearing was set for Monday, March 30, but it was believed Missouri officers would arrive Saturday to escort him back there for hearing.

Watson admitted he jumped bail in Missouri more than a year ago while the supreme court was hearing his appeal case on the grand theft charges. After he came to California, the supreme court affirmed the lower court's decision, ordering Watson to prison for two years, according to word from Missouri officers. Watson was using the alias, "Virgil Grey," when arrested by Deputy Sheriff James Workman and Newport Beach Officer Walton Dyson at his Newport Beach apartment, 118 Twenty-Fourth street. Watson had been employed at a beach cannery.

"Lonesome Pine" Matinee Will Be Staged Tomorrow

Because of popular demand, a special matinee will be staged at the West Coast theater tomorrow at 2 p. m. to screen the first all-color picture of the outdoors, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," starring Sylvia Sydney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda, it was announced today.

Natural color and natural backgrounds are used exclusively in the picture of the famous John Fox Jr. novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," a story of "feuding" in the colorful Cumberland mountains where family battles family for reasons long forgotten. It is a poignant and human drama.

Second feature on the program, which will show for the last time Thursday night, is "Silly Billies," in which the nutty comedians, Wheeler and Woolsey, appear as quack dentists in the wild and woolly West.

SET FOR 32 YEARS
CHICAGO, March 24.—(UP)—Mrs. Charlotte Weightman received a divorce after collecting $1 a day maintenance from Charles Weightman for 32 years—a total of $11,000.

KEN Murray SAYS:

Imagine the Administration's surprise, when the return from March's income-tax is yielding millions more than the government had estimated. . . . Don't get excited folks, because Uncle Sam didn't. . . . He just remained calm, and collected. But isn't that just like Americans. . . . As soon as they get a few dollars in their pockets, they start bragging about it.

I guess we'll have to admit there must be some merit in the Administration's alleged reckless spending of relief money. . . . Wasn't there an old adage that said something about east your bread upon the waters, and it comes back dough?

So . . . The wheel of fortune spins round and round, but here's hoping it lasts longer than that music did.

political negotiations without first consulting the others.

The agreement also provides for establishment of a permanent body for reciprocal consultations among the three signatories, thus binding them together in a manner equivalent to the formation of a formal entente among them.

The permanent reciprocal consulting body will consist of the foreign ministers of the three powers, meeting periodically.

Although Czechoslovakia, close ally of France, is not included in the new entente, Premier Benito Mussolini has succeeded in bringing that country indirectly into the diplomatic network he is trying to form in Central Europe, it was said on reliable authority.

WHITE HOME FROM BOY SCOUT PARLEY

Harrison E. White, Orange county Boy Scout executive, was back in his office in the Spurgeon building today after having returned from the National Boy Scout Executive's conference in French Lick, Indiana.

White reported that 748 Scout executives from all part of the nation attended the national meeting to discuss mutual problems and the programs under way. He said he was delighted to find that Orange county's program is even more complete than in most sections of the country.

Harris Richsacker, Scout executive for the Tahoe council, is spending today with White discussing plans for the division Camporal to be held here in April, when 4000 Boy Scouts will be here.

JEROME TO SPEAK AT C. OF C. MEETING

Supervisor W. C. Jerome will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county in the Green Cat cafe at 6:30 o'clock next Tuesday night. It was announced today.

The speaker will discuss the subject, "Taxation," it was announced. The musical program will include dinner music by a Mexican instrumental trio. The business session, to be presided over by President George Kellogg of Yorba Linda, will include election of officers.

MILLIONS KEEP EYE ON TICKET IN BIG 'SWEEP'

There will be 152 winners in each of 14 units—a grand total, with the ten residual prizes, of 2158 winners. Top prize is $150,000.

Names of winners of the 10 residual prizes and the consolation prizes of 100 pounds ($500) each will be drawn tomorrow.

American and Canadian ticket holders whose counterfoils were drawn with names of horses leading in today's grand national betting included:

Keen Blade, 15 to 1 in the betting; Mary Howard, 718 42nd Ave., San Francisco. Reynoldstown, second favorite, 13 to 2; "The 23 Kid," care Matson Navigation Co., Wilmington, Calif.

SAN FRANCISCO GIRL IS WINNER IN SWEEPSTAKES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—(UP)—Mary Howard, 25-year-old unemployed San Francisco stenographer invested $7.50 in three Irish sweepstakes tickets months ago.

Then each day she repeated over and over, "I'm going to win."

And today she won at least $3750, perhaps $150,000. Her ticket was one of the lucky ones drawn from a huge drum in Dublin. She gets $3750 whether her horse, Keen Blade, goes to the post or not. She gets $150,000 if he wins.

CALIFORNIA CLERK ALSO HOLDER OF $3750 TICKET

WILMINGTON, Cal., March 24.—(UP)—Joe Scafe, 25, clerk, spent most of the morning denying he had a ticket in the Irish sweepstakes. He thought he was being kidded when informed the ticket he bought for $2.50 will bring him at least $3750—perhaps $150,000.

When it finally sank home, Scafe admitted holding the ticket, and calmly went right on working at his desk in the Matson Navigation Co. offices.

CONDON READY FOR HOFFMAN'S 'THIRD DEGREE'

the clouds blackened for the Lindbergh kidnaper. Today in the Trenton death house Hauptmann signs a new appeal to the court of pardons, meeting to consider the case of another condemned murderer.

There was little likelihood the court would act, since it refused once before. Unless there is startling new evidence or Hoffman grants a new reprieve, which he claims he has no intention of doing, Hauptmann dies one week from tonight.

Hoffman has alleged discrepancies in Condon's testimony at Hauptmann's trial at Flemington and in his previous and subsequent oral and written statements. Condon points out that Hoffman was governor of New Jersey during all of the Hauptmann trial, that he (Condon) had been available to him for months, that his statements to all authorities had been as easily available.

INVESTIGATOR DIGS UP NEW ISIDOR FISCH CLUE

HAVANA, March 24.—(UP)—R. W. Hicks, special investigator in the Bruno Richard Hauptmann case, received information from police today purporting to show Isidor Fisch was in Cuba after the Lindbergh kidnapping.

Police had an affidavit from a woman of Artemisa who they said knew and talked to Fisch.

Hicks also was told of a letter, previously disclosed, in which Fisch was supposed to have inquired regarding circulation of "hot" money in Cuba. Hauptmann always has asserted kidnap ransom bills found in his possession were given him by Fisch.

The alleged Fisch letter was supposed to have been sent to a German, believed still in Havana.

Hicks has been retained by the defense in the Hauptmann case and said he also represents Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey. Hicks expects to leave for Trenton, N. J., tomorrow.

PIONEER RANCHER OF COUNTY DIES

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Harry Hayes Lewis, 59, pioneer rancher of the Garden Grove and Santa Ana districts, who died yesterday at a local hospital. Services will be conducted at 2 p. m. at the Winbiger Mortuary chapel and interment will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Lewis, who died of a heart affliction, had been in ill health for some time. He was a native of Des Moines, Ia., but had lived in Garden Grove and Santa Ana for the past 35 years. At the time of his death his home was at 422 West First street.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Mable Lewis, he is survived by one daughter, Miss Blanche Lewis, Santa Ana; three sons, Harold H., Arthur W., both of Santa Ana, and Carl F. Lewis of Los Angeles; two brothers, Frank Lewis, Santa Ana, and Carl L. Lewis, of Santa Barbara and a sister, Mrs. A. H. Huston of Atascadero.

Police Hunt For Missing 11 Year Old Orange Boy

Search for bare-footed 11-year-old Lindsay Hargett, Lewis and Lamson streets, Route 2, Orange, was being conducted in Santa Ana, Anaheim and Newport Beach today.

The lad's mother, Mrs. Mabel Hargett, told sheriff's officers today that Lindsay, four feet tall, weighing 65 pounds, having blue eyes and light brown hair, and wearing green sweater, blue overalls, brown shirt and white cap, but without shoes or stockings, disappeared with his father, Hubert Hargett, about 6 o'clock last evening. She believed they might be selling books for a credit agency in one of the three cities. She said she was worried and wanted to hear from them.

business days lost by thousands of merchants, working hours lost by probably 200,000 employees of mills, factories, stores and offices, and millions of tons of fertile farmland washed into the sea, the estimate appeared to be conservative.

Welfare authorities feared that the thousands of families left without means of support by destroyed stores and factories, and thousands of others made indigent by destruction of their houses or loss of home furnishings, would seriously tax relief rolls.

OHIO RIVERS START ON ANOTHER RAMPAGE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 24.—(UP)—Northeastern Ohio creeks, fed by heavy rains, turned the Mahoning and Tuscarawas rivers into raging torrents late today.

One life was taken, Clarence Anderson, 51, resident of the county infirmary, toppled from a foot-bridge and was swept away.

The Mahoning near here was eight feet above normal. The creek in which Anderson fell normally is a small stream feeding the Mahoning.

The Tuscarawas near Massillon rose to flood stage. Residents of lowlands fled their homes in rowboats.

The water level had risen three feet in the past 24 hours. Heavy rains fell throughout the night. Showers continued today.

Two other bodies were reported seen in the Mahoning river, but it was not known whether they were flood victims or bodies of two men believed drowned during the winter.

POPE REFUSES TO AID DIONNE PLEA

MONTREAL, March 24.—(UP)—A papal legate replied to a letter the parents of the Dionne quintuplets wrote to the Pope and reported that while his holiness was interested in the case he could do nothing to help the parents gain custody of the girls, Oliva Dionne, the father said here today.

Dionne said also he had written to King Edward VIII but has received no reply.

The quintuplets were made "wards of the king" by a special act passed in the Ontario legislature last year.

Oliva, and his wife, Elzire, came here for a visit after a trip to New York.

PLANS CHANGED FOR LAUNCHING FARM PROGRAM

and R. Tolley and three of his four regional directors will remain in Washington, perfecting details of the program and working out final decisions on many problems as yet undecided.

George E. Farrell, director of the far western region, will attend the Salt Lake City meeting.

During the first week of April, after state agricultural officials and AAA field agents have had an opportunity to become familiar with the program, county meetings will be held. Present plans contemplate simultaneous meetings in all counties, with each county agent directing the meeting for his own area.

The regulations for the program were modified slightly when it was revealed that a neutral classification of crops had been established which is not to be counted in establishing acreage bases on which benefits are to be computed.

The new classification includes: 1. Vineyards, tree fruits, small fruits, or nut trees, when not interplanted. When they are interplanted, the land shall carry the classification of the actual acreage in the intercrop grown.

2. Idle crop land. However, where this land was left idle in 1935 due to unusual weather conditions, it may be reclassified upon recommendation by the state committee and approval of the secretary.

3. Cultivated fallow land, including clean cultivated orchards and vineyards. Cultivated fallow land, however, may be otherwise classified on recommendation of the state committee and approval by the secretary.

4. Pastureland, roads, lanes, lots, yards, etc.

5. Woodland, other than that planted at the owners' expense since 1933.

Incorporation Of Laguna Riviera Hotel Is Planned

Articles of incorporation for the new million-dollar hotel corporation, formed to build the proposed Laguna Riviera hotel, at Laguna Beach, were filed today with County Clerk J. M. Backs.

The articles show an authorized capitalization of $1,000,000 in common and preferred stock. The five directors named in the articles are Alfred Violette, John Lucas, C. C. Drake, Adolph Beckneul and Milburn Violette, all residents of Laguna Beach.

Police News

P. Lee Madrid, 59, of 1518 Spurgeon, was booked at county jail today on a drunk driving charge after his arrest at Seventh and Bush streets shortly after midnight last night. Officers W. H. Heard and F. L. Grouard made the arrest. A local doctor pronounced Madrid "markedly intoxicated."

L. R. Harris, 4116 West Third, reported at 11 p. m. last night, his car was stolen from Fourth between Bush and Spurgeon. Officers W. H. Heard and F. L. Grouard located the car a few minutes later on Fourth between Bush and Main.

Special Officer Bert Dawson surprised three men who were trying to steal a spotlight from a car parked on Bush between Third and Fourth last night, but they ran and escaped, he reported to city police.

WPA SCALE IN CALIFORNIA IS AMONG HIGHEST

WASHINGTON, March 24.—

(UP)—California's WPA scale of $59.83 is the second highest in the nation and only exceeded by New York City, Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today.

The scale in New York City is $72.23 while the lowest pay is $23.93 a month in North Carolina. Hopkins said the average wage throughout the country is $50.03 monthly. That, he said, is near the prevailing wage level.

His formal statement came as his agency's "security" work-relief pay scale was under attack in two states. Public works union employees went on strike in St. Louis. WPA workmen demanded a 10 per cent raise in Wisconsin.

Hopkins' original wage scale was designed to be from 20 to 30 per cent below prevailing wages so that persons working on government projects would be anxious to take employment in private industry.

Protests, however, forced WPA to raise its pay level by 10 per cent and decrease working hours by the same amount.

Hopkins said eight per cent of the 3,000,000 persons now on WPA work relief rolls receive more than $70 a month; about half receive in excess of $50; one-third are paid between $30 and $50; 15 per cent are given less than $30.

State-by-state wage averages computed for December included: Arizona, $49.65; California, $59.83; Nevada, $46.85.

OLD TIMERS' NIGHT PLANNED BY LEGION

"Old Timers' Night" will be observed here Thursday night at the regular meeting of Santa Ana Post No. 131, American Legion. Harold Rasmussen, adjutant of the post said today that an excellent program of entertainment is being arranged for that night and all old-time members of the Legion are urged to attend. The entertainment will be arranged by George Sullivan.

Rasmussen said that as a feature of the meeting Continuous Membership cards will be presented to more than 80 members of the post. These cards, authorized by the National headquarters, bear a gold star of each five years of continuous membership in the American Legion.

He said that there are approximately 35 members of Santa Ana post who will receive cards bearing three gold stars, representing years continuous membership in the organization. Approximately the same number will receive cards indicating 10 years continuous membership and a number of five-year cards will be presented.

Officers Called Out To Discover Spooning Couple

It was his love and not his liquor that the young man was giving the young girl as the two of them were parked in the young man's coupe on Richland avenue, west of Flower street, last night, according to a police investigation.

A report came to the city police station about 9:30 p. m. that the man was giving the girl liquor, "and they have been there for some time." Radio Patrolmen W. B. Moreland and H. E. Holmes responded to the call.

When they returned to the station they filed their report: "A young couple spooning. They didn't have any liquor. They've gone home now."

OVER THIRD OF FLOOD RELIEF FUNDS RAISED

Led by a subscription of $50 from Mrs. Harrison C. Mower of Balboa Island contributions to the disaster relief fund being raised by the Santa Ana chapter, Red Cross for Johnston flood sufferers, totalled $473.74 today.

According to Harry Hanson, treasurer for the Santa Ana chapter, previous donations had totalled $18.62, up to yesterday morning. Since that time a total of $355.15 in additional contributions had been received. Donations to help swell Santa Ana's quota of $1200, may be sent to Hanson at the First National Bank.

Funds donated here are remitted daily to the Pacific Branch office of American Red Cross, in San Francisco for immediate transmittal to the flood area. Every cent contributed is being used for relief of the thousands of people made homeless by floods in the eastern part of the United States. No deductions are made from the donations for overhead, according to Dr. John Wehrly, chairman of the Santa Ana chapter.

In a letter received by Dr. Wehrly, today from Henry M. Baker of the Pacific Branch office conditions in the flooded area are deplorable. He said that the death toll is continuing to increase and the number of people made homeless, by the flood is increasing until, according to the latest reports 330,000 persons had been made homeless. A blizzard, said to be raging in the flooded area, is adding to the misery of the sufferers.

In his letter Baker said "heroic efforts are being made to reduce suffering to a minimum. Emergency needs of warm and substantial food, clothing and shelter and adequate medical and nursing aid are being met with direct action." There are more than 64,000 families right now in urgent need of Red Cross assistance, Baker said.

All money sent into the San Francisco headquarters from chapters in this state, is being telegraphed daily to Washington, D. C. for immediate transfer to the flood area.

When they returned to the station they filed their report: "A young couple spooning. They didn't have any liquor. They've gone home now."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

BY PAUL MALLON

(Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon)
NOAH

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Supernaturalism has existed since the dawn of time, and the master of all there are some economists who say the only reason the farm program increased prices as much as it did was because the drought came along at the right time. Likewise, there are new dealers who will not confess sotto voce that the slaying of the NRA by the supreme court was before the campaign started was nothing less than an act of providence.

This conversational speculation lacked official confirmation until the other day when the White House announced that President Roosevelt had "anticipated" the disaster two weeks before the rain fell. He set aside $18,411,633 and no cents on February 29 for the relief of floods which started after March 15.

This, apparently, is the greatest tip anyone ever got on a flood since Noah.

SKEPTICISM

Official weather prophets are known to be a godless lot, which probably accounts for the fact that they were scooped completely on the flood. They are still trying to maintain, no doubt jealously, that the deluge was due to an unforeseeable quirk of nature. Their story is that the snows thawed and were carried off satisfactorily, but left the ground saturated.

Thus, when unexpected rains fell, the ground declined to absorb any further moisture, so all the rain slid off at once into the rivers.

UNCERTAINTY

Political unbelievers, who are always trying to disparage, are trying it again. This time, they say that if Mr. Roosevelt knew so much about the flood, why did he arrange to leave on his vacation fishing trip the very night it reached its deadly height?

His Thursday night departure was scheduled, for example, on the Southern railway. Switches along the way were spiked, bridges guarded, special train assembled. Departure then was delayed 24 hours and the route switched to the Atlantic Coast line. This road then spiked its switches, etc., etc. Rather uselessly as it turned out, because on Friday Mr. Roosevelt delayed another 24 hours and changed back to the Southern. The Southern had just reinstated its cancelled arrangements when, on Sunday, Mr. Roosevelt decided to go Sunday via Atlantic Coast line.

This manifest uncertainty engendered a belief around Washington that there was something more tangible than a supernatural alliance behind the flood going Democratic, and there was.

WASHINGTON

IMPERFECT

Henry Wallace's energetic young men have run into acres of troubles in setting up the new AAA program, although they won't admit it publicly.

The major difficulty lies in the fact that payment for soil conservation is not under control over production. Preliminary reports of acreage to be sown in basic crops foreshadow the same sort of surplus that sent prices down to starvation levels in 1932. Farmers have been quick to sense that the new system will furnish federal handouts but not permanent high prices for their crops. They see no long-time future for agriculture in the new set-up. Moreover, it penalizes the thrifty, soil-saving grower and benefits the wastrel of land.

Redistribution of benefits has also caused complaints. New England, which hatched the lawsuit that upset the original AAA, will get three times what it did under the old program. The west, which stood loyally by the first AAA, will suffer. But the Wallaces are the most philosophic, far-seeing group at the capital and they expect to straighten out these problems.

GREATEST PROBLEM BEFORE
PEOPLE, DECLARES STEINER

Governments in which there are the greatest number of elected officials tend to be the most corrupt, according to Dr. Arthur Steiner, Professor of Political Science at U.C.L.A. Dr. Steiner spoke here last night in the auditorium at Frances Willard Junior high school, talking on the topic: "Social Changes in Political Science."

Dr. Steiner is delivering a series of lectures under sponsorship of the adult education department, on the general theme "Indications of Social Change." This was the second in his series of talks.

He declared that "political bosses have found their control easiest to hold in the cities where there are the greatest number of elected officials." As evidence of this fact he cited Chicago where approximately 600 officials are elected every two years. He contrasted this with the federal government with but 533 elective officers and each voter is called upon to elect only the president and vice president, every four years, and one representative every two years, and sometimes a senator.

"The field of political science," he said, "is now in a sort of anarchist state, no one knowing exactly where we are or where we want to go. The political scientist resembles an architect. He must know where the government wants to go before he can give competent advice."

"The great policy determining function must remain in the hands of popular voters, but we are more and more leaving the actual working out of the plans in the hands of political science. This is contrasted to the Fascist belief in which the government holds that the common people cannot know what they want, or what is good for them. The great problem before the American people now is efficiency in government versus popular control."

Referring to the control of large elective bodies, by political bosses and corrupt influences, he said a dictator is not dangerous until he begins to control the means of news dissemination.

"The American people have gradually abandoned the old idea that one man can govern as well as another. The present leaders in the field of civil service pay more attention to the selection and training of officials than to their retention in office. This is in contrast to the popular idea of civil service."

"The question of who makes our laws is interesting because now, congress really writes less than one-tenth of the laws. The other nine-tenths are either written by the chief executive or by one of the lobby groups."

"Democracy has no defensive weapon against the encroachments of Fascist or Communist propaganda because, when it uses any method of combating these doctrines it is doing the very thing which makes Fascism."

Next Monday night Dr. Steiner will deliver the third lecture in his series and will talk on "Indications of Social Changes in Psychology."

Orphan Baby
Seal Adopts
Man At Beach

Abandoned on the sand by its mother, a baby seal, only a few hours old, was found yesterday by Roy Sullard, 714 Huntington avenue, Huntington Beach.

Sullard and his family were spending a few hours on the beach and discovered the tiny animal, near the water's edge. It crawled toward Sullard who picked it up and replaced it in the water. Instead of swimming away, the seal returned to shore refusing to be abandoned.

When the seal refused to be abandoned Sullard took it to the chamber of commerce and later to his home where he is keeping it until he finds someone who wants a pet seal.

ATTORNEY SAYS
$25 PER HOUR
FEE NOT UNFAIR

Defending himself against claims that his legal fee was excessive, Eugene I. Gottlieb, Los Angeles attorney, who charged the Rev. Charles E. Fuller, formerly of Placentia, $25 per hour for services rendered in his office, and $37.50 per hour for services outside, was upheld on the witness stand in superior court today by a fellow attorney from Los Angeles, Dave F. Smith.

Smith, who is chairman of the state board that examines attorneys seeking admission to the state bar, testified before Superior Judge H. G. Ames that work of the type undertaken by Gottlieb in straightening out the financial affairs of the minister, was worth $25 to $30 per hour.

Work outside of the office, if it occurred but a brief space, was worth $5 per hour more; or $10 per hour more if it occupied a longer time, the witness said. Gottlieb presented the Rev. Mr. Fuller with a bill for nearly $10,000. One item was a charge of $187 for going to Placentia to collect $950 of his fee from the minister, among other reasons. Another item was $1250 for a half-hour telephone conversation with the minister called him to tell him he was going to pay $500 of the fee.

The Rev. Mr. Fuller is suing Gottlieb to cancel a $10,000 note he gave for the fee, and to set aside trust deeds, given as security, covering property in three counties, estimated to represent $100,000 in equities.

MAKE YOUR GRASS
HELP YOU CHOKE OUT WEEDS!

Grass roots become active earlier in the spring than weed roots. By giving your lawn a square meal as soon as the frost is out of the ground, you can give the grass such a quick, healthy start that weeds will find little room to grow.

But it takes a very thick turf and a deep, matted root system to choke out weeds. You can have this kind of grass only by feeding a complete, balanced plant food, such as Vigoro.

With Vigoro you take no chances. It supplies all the food elements growing things need from the soil. It is sanitary, odorless, easy to use. Economical, because its results are sure.

Feed everything you grow... with VIGORO THE SQUARE MEAL FOR LAWNS AND FLOWERS

VIGORO is really fine on roses and all kinds of flowers. It induces a very deep root growth in lawns—in that way being the only manner in which you can get humus mixed in the under-surface soil. Made by SWIFT & CO., Vigoro is the most widely used plant food in America.

HOUSEWORK SUCH A
DRUDGERY FEELING
THE WAY SHE DID

Wichita Falls Lady Was Extremely Nervous, Suffered with Stomach Disorders, Couldn't Sleep, an Effort to Get Around Before She Began Gly-Cas.

It is actually astonishing what this new Gly-Cas will do in the most stubborn cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles. Many local people are now realizing how fortunate they are in having Gly-Cas introduced here.

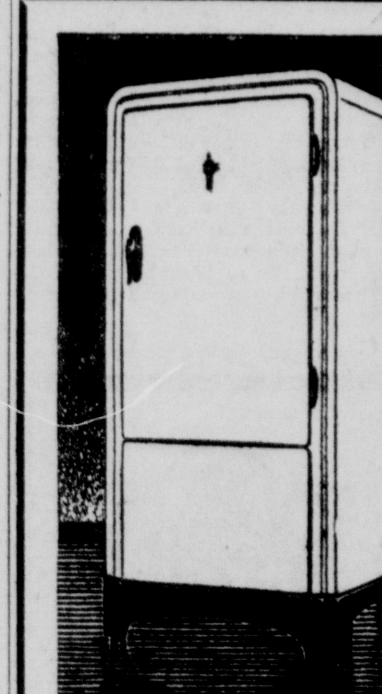

MRS. B. L. FRASIER

In Santa Ana as they have found it to be just the medicine they have been needing for years. Read what Mrs. B. L. Frasier, 702 Barnett St., Wichita Falls, Texas, respected lady of that vicinity, said recently to the Gly-Cas Man who is now at the K-B Drug, No. 3, at 108 West Fourth St., this city, where he is daily receiving much praise and comment on the accomplishments of this new remedy right here in Santa Ana:

"It is remarkable how quickly and thoroughly Gly-Cas has reached my case," said Mrs. Frasier. "I had been in falling health for years and had to drag myself around to do my own housework. I was badly constipated and extremely nervous and my stomach became disordered. Regardless of what I ate gas would form and caused awful bloating. It got so that each meal meant distress afterwards and I finally lost my appetite for foods, and when I did eat I had to force each bite—and then attacks of indigestion made my life unbearable at times. Then, too, the dizzy spells I endured would almost drive me frantic at times. I couldn't sleep at night and would lay awake by the hour. But finally I began this new Gly-Cas and my entire system was regulated."

"It is wonderful to feel as good as I do today," continued Mrs. Frasier. "All those months of suffering have been completely relieved and I am feeling my former self once more and able to go about, do my own work and enjoy life as others again. I know there never was a medicine like Gly-Cas before and every ailing person should know of it—for Gly-Cas is truly a medicine of merit."

The Gly-Cas Man is kept busy every day at the K-B Drug, No. 3, at 108 W. Fourth St., where he is meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the action of this new medical discovery. Free samples given. Gly-Cas $1.00 box, 6 boxes $5.00, plus 3c per dollar, tax, by mail. Cash must accompany order.

THIEVES AGAIN ACTIVE: PURSE SNATCHER BUSY

Theft of school supplies at John Muir school on East Fourth street, purse snatching in a downtown store and a petty theft from a parked automobile were being investigated by city police today.

George Newcom of the Board of Education reported someone, perhaps a child, hurled a stone through a rear window of the school building during the weekend but failed to get into the building because the window had been nailed shut. It was the fourth consecutive weekend of theft activity at John Muir, he said, in previous attempts, the thief gaining entrance through the same window and ransacking all desks of the building, obtaining pencils and erasers belonging to teachers and pupils. A youthful hand-print was obtained near the window sill.

While Faye Smith, 1005 Hickory street, was shopping in a downtown five and ten cent store yesterday, someone, believed to have been a very tall woman wearing a yellow house dress, snatched her purse and disappeared. The purse contained $12 cash, an address book and a First National bank book in the name of M. A. Daniels.

Charles H. Fricke, 1512 South Barton, said someone stole a radiator ornament from his car while it was parked recently at Fourth and Garfield, near the carnival.

The event will start at 1:30 o'clock on the school grounds. There will be more than 250 kites entered in the various divisions of the contest and prizes will be awarded winners in each division. ## NEGRO GIRLS GIVE CONCERT IN CHURCH

A large and appreciative audience last night enjoyed the concert at the United Brethren church where the Burks sisters, four Santa Ana Negro girls, appeared in a benefit program for Johnson chapel A.M.E. church.

The girls today expressed their thanks and appreciation, on behalf of Johnson chapel, to the United Brethren church, the newspapers, and the public, for their cooperation in "the success of their first concert."

The four sisters, Anna Mae, Marvella Jean, Dora Lee and Ocelita June, presented a most interesting program. Anna Mae, a pupil of Harry Garstang, showed skill and ability at the piano. Marvella Jean led the quartet in the spirituals, which were impressively rendered. Dora Lee, former student in the Visel studio, under the direction of Miss Emma Williams, read "Superstition," "Red Time" and "The Bald Headed Man." Ocelita June, a pupil of Elwood Baer, rendered violin numbers.

YOUNG AUTOIST FINED $250 ON TRAFFIC COUNT

Represented by Attorney Otto Jacobs, Raymond J. Heim who gave his address as Dixie Castle, appeared before City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday and pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge. He was fined $250, $50 of which was paid with agreement to pay the remainder at rate of $15 per month.

The charge of drunk driving, first filed against young Heim, following an accident in which his car crashed through the front of the Oakley Furniture store, Fourth and Spurgeon, early on the morning of March 14, was dismissed by the district attorney and the reckless driving charge filed in its place, officials said. Three of Heim's friends, riding with him at the time of the accident, were but slightly injured and Heim escaped injury, according to officers who investigated.

For speeding, Robert H. Cox, Los Angeles, paid $12; M. C. Phelps, Ontario, $10; Raymond Juarez, 909 North Spadra, Fullerton, $6, and Samantha Jennings, 117 West Palm, Orange, $3 of a $5 fine, agreeing to pay the rest later.

John Gonzales, 420 Franklin, Santa Ana, and Ray Hernandez, Route 3, Box 404, Santa Ana, who pleaded guilty to drunk driving, were sent to county jail for 75 days each in lieu of paying $150 fines. Leo Ruiz, El Modena, was fined $15 for being drunk after officers arrested him for trying to start a fight at the carnival; John Vasquez, 407 Fairview, Santa Ana, whose car was released to his brother, temporarily, was fined $15 for being drunk, and Joe Rozas, 32, El Modena, accused of using a pair of iron knuckles on J. Dominguez, Route 3, Santa Ana, agreed to work out a $15 fine for being drunk. R. A. Bailey, Arch Smith and Charles Ray paid $1 each for illegal parking.

LOCAL FIRM IS GIVEN SCHOOL BUILDING JOB

The Santa Ana combination of contracting firms, Therman Means and Ball and Honer, who are now completing the new high school administration building, also will build the new commercial building of the high school group, the contract being awarded them by the board of education last night, at a figure of $69,987.

This was the lowest of four bids submitted, and opened by the board last Thursday evening. The bids, held under advisement until last night, included $71,340 by Stark and Schmid, of Santa Ana; $73,100 by Blystone and Van Tuyle, of Brea, contractors on the new science building; and $74,150 by Charles W. Pettifer, of Long Beach.

Recommendation Made
While actual awarding of the contract is done by federal Public Works Administration, which has made a grant of $100,350 to the three remaining high school units, blocks B, C, and E, the recommendation of the board of education is tantamount to the actual award.

A resolution passed by the board last night, recommending the award, includes the statement that the district will have sufficient funds, from the $140,000 bond issue recently sold, to pay the difference between the $69,987 bid on Block E, and the architect's estimate of $66,000, upon which the PWA grant was based.

Architects Allison and Allison, of Los Angeles, were at wed $2150 on their fee last night, this representing half of the amount at present due them upon the high school plans.

A member of the firm, present last night, discussed with the board the proposal to authorize complete plans for landscaping and planting of the high school campus, in connection with the new building program. No action was taken.

Replace Old Building

Block A, the administration building, will be completed within about three weeks, it was reported last night by Contractor Means, as the board ordered bids to be opened April 13, on a contract for painting the exterior concrete surfaces of the administration structure.

The board also will receive bids April 13 on the contract for sale and demolition or removal of the Edison elementary school classrooms, which will be replaced by a new structure. A minimum price of $50 for the building was fixed.

The board last night authorized City Superintendent Frank Henderson to employ a substitute kindergarten teacher for part-time service at John Muir school, where Miss Mary Priscilla Allen, the regular teacher, was recently granted leave of absence for half time.

C. E. HOLDS PARTY
MIDWAY CITY, March 24.—Christian Endeavor members held a party recently at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Clifford Jones.

CLARENCE HAPES VOTED NO. 1 ATHLETE AT OLE MISS

You've heard all about Ray Hapes, the dashing ex-Don who has a running start toward All-America honors in football after a sensational season at the University of Mississippi.

To the world-at-large, the Garden Grove graduate is known as one of the greatest sophomore backs that ever played south of the Mason-Dixon line.

But on the campus of the University of Mississippi, otherwise Ole

Miss encouraged Hapes in continuing his career, has good reason to feel proud of his big protege.

Here's the story hot from the Mississippi press:

"Clarence Hapes was accorded one of the highest honors that can come to an Ole Miss student when he was named to receive the coveted Norris Trophy, awarded to the outstanding athlete on the campus.

"The trophy is presented on a basis of points earned in the various sports of the university and by a vote of the student body. The vote of the student body counts 10 points toward the total. Hapes received 66 1-2 points. James Poole was second with 44. McNeil Bartling third with 24.

"To be eligible, a student must have a C average in his class work, and not be on probation for any violation of the rules and regulations of the institution.

"Hapes came to Mississippi three years ago, and has distinguished himself in every sport he has entered.

"As a freshman he was a star on the football team and showed promise of developing into one of the leading gridirers of Ole Miss history, a promise he has not belied in his two years of service with the varsity.

"His sophomore season he was a star in football, both at tackle and fullback. He earned his letter in boxing, twice winning over conference and going through the season undefeated in five fights.

"On the diamond he was regular first baseman, and showed his versatility further by throwing the weights for the track team.

"In his junior year, Hapes was the sparkplug of the football team at fullback and earned favorable comment for mythical team honors. Kept out of training due to a knee injury in the Mississippi State game, he was able to box only once. He won that. With baseball and track yet to come, Hapes seems certain of winning his letter in each of these sports and thus gain eight letters in two years of competition.

"It, and everything seems to point to the fact that it is more than a mere possibility, he continues next year as he has in the past, Hapes will become one of the few—if not the only man—ever to win 12 letters in Ole Miss athletic history."

Hapes writes that he will not return to Garden Grove this summer but will work in Memphis, Tenn., as a playground leader. This is along the line of his collegiate major. Hapes says he is "down to skin and bones" at 219 pounds, a figure at which he'll probably play football next fall.

Miss, they are even prouder of the achievements of Ray's giant brother, Clarence.

He has just been voted the university's outstanding athlete. Scholarship and "attitude" are taken into consideration in making the award. The "Moore" took no prizes as a bookworm in Santa Ana years but has blossomed into a student leader of parts at Ole Miss.

McARTER TO MAKE FISTIC START FRIDAY

Oliver McCarter, former star school player of Orange high school and Santa Ana junior college, and brother of the former heavyweight amateur star, "Bud" McCarter, will emulate "Porky" Bell Friday night when he steps into the Orange County Athletic club's ring for the first time.

McCarter will appear in one of the feature preliminaries to the heavyweight rematch between Henry Lowe and Lupe LeMon. His opponent will be Bill Montgomery, winner over Bell last Friday night.

Promoter Sam Sampson to match him with Montgomery yesterday.

"That fellow is made to order for me," said Oliver, "and I'd like nothing better than to meet him in my first start."

One of the strongest supporting cards in months has been booked for Friday night's show. Besides the McCarter-Montgomery and LeMon-Lowe scraps, Sampson will send Ken Holliday out against Tino Munoz, former Anaheim amateur who is now making his home at Ontario; Maxie Moore, the rugged little Orange lightweight who looms as a topnotch drawing card, returns to action in a four rounder against Joe Orona; Al Garcia meets Ed Mossette; Tuffy Nieblaus tangles with "Porky" Bell; "Frenchy" Jure opposes Sammy Vasquez and Jimmy Woodrooff makes "Bang" Burton.

GRANGE SEEKS JOB IN RADIO

Famous '77' Says He's Too Old to Play Football

HE CAN'T GET COACH'S POST

By STEVE SNIDER (United Press Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 24.—The red-headed ghost who blazed his famous "77" over the nation's gridirons the last two decades, is planning still another year in football.

Coaching? Well, there was a job open—but that went to a fellow named Carl Shively. He had good luck at North Carolina, so Cornell signed him.

Playing? After 17 years the old legs sort of just won't go. So it's radio for Harold (Red) Grange, the one-time iceman.

—If he can land the job. Red's status in Wheaton, his home, is just about what it was when he was the quiet little suburban leading ice man. His dad is chief of police.

"I quit playing before I got killed. The open game is swell. It's easier to throw the ball over a big line than carry it through."

"The Detroit Lions are the best in the business. Fast backs, great line. They'll take the college all-stars easily when they play this summer, since they have the speed to match the collegians. The Bears never could."

Grange concluded his 16-year playing career with the Chicago Bears in 1934. From a sensational blocking field runner, the former galloping ghost of Illinois developed into a steady team player, forward passer and hard tackle in his nine-year stretch with the Bears.

INFECTION OF THROAT PROVES FATAL IN ARIZ.

Harry Clayton, one of the Santa Ana football players who followed Coach "Tex" Oliver to the University of Arizona and there won all-Border conference honors as a tackle, died in a Tucson hospital from a throat infection last night.

Clayton, who became 24 last week, is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clayton sr. of 615 Fairview avenue who were at his bedside when he passed away.

A 210-pound giant who stood six feet and three inches, Clayton suffered a cold and sore throat March 17, a week ago today. Specialists lanced the throat but the trouble continued, and poisoning developed.

Several blood transfusions and use of the oxygen tent failed to save his life. He died at 6:45 p. m.

The body was placed on a Santa Ana-bound train, following funeral services in Tucson this afternoon.

Clayton, a two-year letterman in football at Arizona U., was born March 16, 1912 at Edmonton, Canada, and moved to Santa Ana with his parents in 1923. He was graduated from Santa Ana high school in '29 and attended junior college here for two years, receiving all-Border conference mention in football in '32. After an interval of one year, Clayton transferred to the University of Arizona to play under Coach Oliver, who trained him in high school.

He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and Theta Tau honorary fraternity.

A big, mild-mannered, friendly fellow, Clayton was tremendously popular with both schoolmates and instructors.

Reminiscences Give Color To Luncheon Hour

Affording opportunity for an interesting Southland visitor, Mrs. Taylor Thompson of Colorado Springs, to renew many old friendships and strengthen several pleasant new ones, Mrs. Robert G. Tutthill yesterday entertained at luncheon in her home, 2035 Victoria Drive.

Mrs. Thompson has been spending several weeks in California and has been guest from time to time in the Tutthill home, where she has met many Santa Ana friends of her hostess. Yesterday a few of these were assembled for the luncheon, together with some of Mrs. Thompson's Colorado Springs friends new in the Southland, and several from Kansas whose friendship is shared by hostess and honor guest, and in many cases by others present.

It naturally followed that the afternoon was one of pleasant reminiscences, so enthusiastic that it was only occasionally that bridge tables were called into service for a round of contract. However there were contract games, and Mrs. C. V. Davis and Mrs. Briggs received attractive little gifts in reward for special scoring.

Mrs. Tutthill drew upon the resources of her garden for the ramunculus blossoms which made a gay splash of color on the table where luncheon was served. Covers were placed for the hostess, her honor guest, Mrs. Thompson, the latter's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Allan Thompson, with whom she soon will leave for their Colorado home; Mrs. Puffer, also of Colorado Springs; Mrs. Butterworth, Mrs. Mame Brisco and Mrs. Frank Verbees, now of Los Angeles; Mrs. W. W. Dilworth, her daughter, Mrs. John McGowan, and Mrs. Martha Dockstader of Long Beach, formerly of Kansas; Mrs. Mary Dougherty and Miss Katherine Dougherty of Long Beach, mother and sister of Mrs. Tutthill; Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. R. C. Holmes, Mrs. Irwin F. Landow, Mrs. J. E. Liebig and Mrs. John Tessimann, of Santa Ana, all of whom had friends in common with either the Colorado Springs guests or those from Kansas.

Eightieth Anniversary Is Observed With Family Party

In accordance with a family custom, children, grandchildren and other relatives of J. R. Shields, 615 West Second street, joined Sunday in staging a birthday dinner in his honor in Clifton cafe, Los Angeles. The event celebrated attainment of his eightieth year.

After the mid-day dinner, guests continued to the home of one of Mr. Shields' daughters, Mrs. Lillian Reese in Los Angeles, where all manner of birthday gifts were awaiting presentation.

J. R. Shields was born in Rome, Ga., on March 23, 1856. In later years he lived in Texas but came to Santa Ana thirty years ago, arriving on Washington's birthday, and electing to make this his home. He is a painter, and four of his sons who are Santa Ana residents, have followed in his footsteps. His wife, the late Mrs. J. R. Shields, died a few years ago, but not until she saw her twelve children grown to maturity and each married and settled in a home of his or her own. The sons are J. W. R. H. Barl and A. G. Shields of this city; J. R. and Will Shields of Texas. Daughters are Miss Hattie Shields, Mrs. H. W. Lewis, Mrs. Mamie Ritchie, Mrs. Lillian Reese and Mrs. Ada Calhoun of Los Angeles, and Mrs. C. S. Reese of Texas, two of his daughters having married brothers.

Not all of these were able to be present Sunday, and the most disappointed absentee was Dean Shields, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barl Shields, 711 West fifth street, who today celebrates his 13th birthday and who never before has missed joining with his grandfather on the anniversary. Dean has been ill for several weeks.

Those present with the honor guest were Messrs. and Mesdames A. G. Shields and daughter Fay, Santa Ana; Marvin Hill, Hollywood; H. W. Lewis, Mesdames Elsie Ritchie, Lillian B. Reese, Ada Calhoun, the Misses Hattie Shields, Genevieve Nelson, Rose Lowry, Marie Nease, Noraine Smith, Marian Smith, Juanita Steel, Madeline Calhoun, Messrs. Luther Driskell, P. C. Reese, Ed. Rabae, Los Angeles, and J. M. Jordan, Inglewood.

Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser Enjoy Snowfall

Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, superintendent at Orange County General hospital, and Mrs. Zaiser were home yesterday from an interesting weekend trip to Idyllwild. Mrs. Zaiser's sister, Mrs. Louis Warren, has been down from her Idyllwild home for the past two weeks visiting the Zaisers, and Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser left Saturday to take her home.

Faced by the threatening clouds, they hastened the trip, expecting to run into heavy rains as they neared the mountain resort. Instead they encountered a snowfall, and had the enjoyable experience of driving the last part of the trip amidst the fleecy flakes. The snow continued falling all night, and they awakened Sunday morning to a white mantled world, with the snow continuing through forenoon hours.

Although Dr. and Mrs. Zaiser are frequent visitors to Idyllwild, they both agree that it is more beautiful in its winter robes than they saw in such fresh perfection this trip, than at any other season.

Suyd Hossain Is Presented In Unforgettable Address

Assailing a civilization which has progressed so amazingly along scientific lines and yet has remained primitive in its moral and ethical attitude towards humanity, Suyd Hossain, one of the most forceful and eloquent speakers ever to address Santa Ana Abell society, yesterday advanced his views as to the present militaristic situation in the world as a whole.

Introduction of the speaker was as intelligent women, ask yourselves why we seek to continue a civilization when the sons who bring into the world and rear to manhood, are sacrificed to this soulless and infernal enterprise of war?

Versailles Treaty

It is Suyd Hossain's contention that practically every discouraging situation in the world today is directly traceable to the Versailles Treaty, which he declared to be almost as devastating to humanity as was the World War which it was supposed to have made a closed chapter.

He traced events leading up to the signing of the treaty, pointing out that secret pacts between Clemenceau and Lloyd George worked to direct disadvantage of President Wilson and his proposed "Peace Without Victory." Especially was this true when Orlando of Italy allied himself with the representatives of France and Great Britain. The treaty itself, the speaker characterized as one of "hatred, vindictiveness and revenge," designed to force Germany into a position where she never again could assume her place as a world power.

The universal depression, the general unrest and chaos in governments, the rise of dictatorships in Germany and Italy, even the repudiation of the war debts, he feels are directly traceable to this treaty, denominated as "the most cynical document in history." The entire European situation, he declared to be a unit no one part of which is understandable without knowledge of the other parts. He traced the trouble in Ethiopia where Italy's aggression is due to her need for expansion and a market for her products. It is all a part of the imperial politics of Europe in which no one part can be settled, by leaving others unsettled.

In Ethiopia

His summary of the Ethiopian situation was especially interesting. Selection of this country for Italy's war of aggression was dictated according to his views, by the fact that it is the only country in Africa that has remained an independent sovereignty. He described Abyssinia as the oldest Christian nation in the world, its people having embraced Christianity in the first century A. D. If not actually while Christ was on earth. They retain the Coptic Communion and have never yielded to either Greek or Roman Catholicism.

Ethiopia has never been conquered in her history, he declared, painting a distressing picture of present conditions when a poorly prepared people with archaic arms must meet the machine guns, aircraft, liquid fire and poison gas of a so-called advanced civilization.

Peace Plans

Unless the present conference can devise a peace plan acceptable to all world powers, Suyd Hossain feels that the world will inevitably be dragged into another wholesale slaughter, for as he pointed out there are 51 members of the League of Nations virtually in a state of war against Italy at present.

He brought his clear and arresting summary to a close with the impassioned plea, "Do you not,

Local Chapter Joins In Anniversary Celebration

Marking the eleventh birthday anniversary of Delta Chi Sigma national sorority was a founders' day banquet which Alpha Epsilon chapter of this city and Alpha Gamma chapter of Long Beach joined in giving last night in the marine room of Hotel Robinson, Long Beach. Since the two chapters have been affiliated with the national group for less than a year, this was their first observance of founders' day.

Twenty-eight officers or chapters, reaching from Canada to Florida, and from Ohio to California, held similar observances. The organization's symbol, a gold chain, was prominent in decorations at tables lighted with yellow tapers and designated with black letters of the two chapters. Flowers were in pink. Tiny fiber-flower nosegays served as favors.

Miss Martha Sharpley represented the local group on the committee. Mrs. Betty Evans, president of Long Beach chapter, opened a program which included a talk on the history of Delta Chi Sigma by Mrs. Lloyd Manderscheid, president of Santa Ana chapter. ## Interior Decorating Course to Open

Women of the city who have derived such value from the interior decorating classes conducted by Miss Edith Hynes of Los Angeles, as a feature of the adult education program, will be interested in learning that Miss Hynes is to launch a new series of weekly lectures on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in Frances Willard library.

This will open the fifth course which Miss Hynes has presented here, and it is her plan to continue illustrating her lectures by means of fabrics, wall hangings, china, and other details of home adornment, which have proven so interesting in previous courses. Part of her popularity is due to the fact that she teaches women of fact the manner in which they may express their own individuality and personality in their homes.

Gay Showers Continue For Popular Girl

Miss Miriam Samuelson ("Sam-mie") to all her friends whose marriage to Carleton Smith is to be an event of Saturday, March 28 in First M. E. bride chapel, is finding herself the center of attention in this final wedding proceeding. Last night she was the guest of a party of unusual charm at which Miss Frances Parks and Mrs. Lloyd Morris received in the home of Miss Parks, 509 West Fifth street.

Coral and ivory tones dominated the decorations, in which plumes of peach and apple blossoms, masses of sweet peas and many candles were used, with the ivory tones appearing in the pottery bowls and candlesticks.

Guests gave their attention to the appropriate game of love whist, and it was equally appropriate that honoree should fall to Miss Samuelson, whose reward was a blooming cineraria. A similar plant only smaller, was consolation to Miss Marjorie Walton for low score.

Each linen spread card table was given its slim coral candle centerpiece for the refreshment interlude when a molded jelly ring centered with strawberries repeated the coral note and was served with individual cakes daintily iced, and coffee.

Miss Parks and Mrs. Morris included on their guest list was Miss Samuelson, Miss Marjorie Walton, Mesdames Paul Shaw, Russell Goetting, Frank Musselman, Dale Park, Leonard Echols, John Newman, Santa Ana; Mrs. Arthur Giltsieple, Huntington Beach; Mrs. John Fluetach, Prado; Mrs. Don Wilcox, Miss Mildred Pence and Miss Kathleen Covern, Laguna Beach. All joined in the selection of the lovely linens which were presented the bride-elect as the finale feature of the evening.

Punch was served throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Harman presided over a midnight supper served at a long table. They were showered with gifts of leather, the symbol of the third anniversary.

Invited to share the event with the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Allen, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasnyder, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Elliott, Miss Dorothy Harman, Ernest Holmes, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Harvey, Miss Ruth Sterling, Jack Winde, Long Beach.

Education in Mexico Provides Theme For Speaker

Discussing "Our Cultural Relations with Mexico," James Hoffman Batten of Claremont, former member of Pomona college faculty, was speaker Friday at luncheon meeting of Musical Arts club in James' cafe.

Mr. Batten, who has been conducting educational tours to the University of Mexico every summer for the past ten years, drew on his own impressions and experiences in giving his talk. He valued highly the exchange-student system which Pomona college began ten years ago. University of Mexico and Pomona college will exchange professors in one department for the summer, he stated.

It was pointed out that educational standards generally arising in Mexico, and that school attendance laws are being enforced in all but the most remote communities.

Mrs. Mabel Spizky, music supervisor in the county schools, who made the tour to Mexico last year with Mr. Batten's party, added interesting side lights during the general discussion which followed the address of the day. Mr. Batten's daughter, Mrs. Leslie Stefensell, is a member of Musical Arts club.

Miss Beulah Parker directed group singing of songs which included a Mexican number.

Lane-Scheffer Wedding Given Pretty Setting In Tustin Church

Tustin Presbyterian church was a bower of spring bloom last night for the 8 o'clock wedding of Miss Ann Scheffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scheffer, 160 South D street, Tustin, to Donald J. Lane of Long Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Lane of that city.

Miss Audrey Pieper was at the organ for nuptial music and to accompany the soloist, Mrs. Owen Woodruff who sang "One Alone" and "I Love You Truly."

The Rev. Calvin A. Duncan, pastor, was joined at the altar by Mr. Lane and his best man, Harold Connelley of Long Beach, to await the approach of the bride on her father's arm, and attended by a bevy of charming girls. Vows were taken beneath an arbor of spruce and peach sprays with stately calla lilies as a background.

Miss Scheffer wore a formal wedding gown of heavy white satin with a train-length tulle veil arranged in halo effect about her face with a chaplet of pearls and orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride roses with a shower of lilies of the valley. Her sole ornament was the strand of pearls which was Mr. Lane's wedding gift.

Miss Martha Zakat was maid of honor, wearing shell pink satin and carrying pink roses in the same tint. The bride's four sisters completed her group of attendants. They wore graceful gowns of net in pastel colors, with flowers to harmonize, and each wore a chaplet of flowers in her hair as did Miss Zakat. They were Mrs. Woodruff (Gertrude Scheffer) in apple green; Mrs. C. D. Holmes (Elizabeth Scheffer) in peach; Mrs. Sam Blaszman (Agnes Scheffer) in pastel pink, and Mrs. John O'Brien (Henrietta Scheffer) in larkspur blue.

Delicate little Beth Blaszman, wearing orchid orandy, was her aunt's flower girl, and ushers completing the wedding party were the bride's four brothers-in-law, Messrs. Owen Woodruff, C. D. Holmes, Sam Blaszman and John O'Brien.

A floral setting was given the church social rooms for the reception hour which followed the rites. The parents of the young couple helped receive. Mrs. Scheffer was crowned in black, grape and Mrs. Perry F. Lane in black and white silk. Both wore gardenia corsages.

The new Mrs. Lane cut the first slice from the elaborately decorated bride's cake which was served with punch.

The young couple will go to Long Beach tonight where a home is in readiness for them at 901 Cornado avenue. Mr. Lane will resume his duties with the Tesaco company, and honeymoon travels will be deferred until summer.

PASTOR TALKS ON TRUE CHRISTIAN

ORANGE, March 24.—"What It Means To Be a Christian" was the subject discussed by Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his sermon Sunday.

"Christianity is the only religion that thinks of God as a loving father," he said. "If we are Christians, Jesus becomes more than a matchless example or a historical figure. He becomes a living part of us and we become miniatures of Him as He lives in us." Giving a sense of brotherhood as a fundamental element of Christianity, the pastor stated that the religion of Christ is unique in that it displays reverence for life and personality which ignores cast or color. In closing, the speaker emphasized the point that Christianity gives a new conception of self. "The true Christian no longer considers himself the center of the universe, but works for the promotion of the kingdom of Christ without thought of self," he said.

TOBY RYAN, 18, who behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store, has been chosen to be the model for a photograph to be used in a campaign to help the Red Cross. Toby is a girl who has been chosen to be the model for a photograph to be used in a campaign to help the Red Cross. Toby is a girl who has been chosen to be the model for a photograph to be used in a campaign to help the Red Cross.

CHAPTER III

THE girl at the desk looked thoughtful. "Maybe," she said after a moment, "you could borrow a dress."

Toby knew she couldn't. In all New York there was no one from whom she could borrow a white evening dress. And she couldn't possibly buy one. Her purse contained less than $10. She was going to lose the chance she had dreamed of, the chance she had prayed for—because she didn't have a white evening dress. She said, trying to hide her disappointment, "I'll—I'll see."

And then the amazing thing happened. The girl in the gray fur coat had been standing with her back toward the other two. She turned now. "Listen, Sally," she said. "I've got a dress I can wear. I'm taller than she is, but we're about the same size otherwise."

"Oh—would you?" Toby's voice was eager.

"You'll probably have to turn up the hem," the girl in the fur coat went on, "but that's easy. I've got slippers to match—I think they'll fit you. What size do you wear?"

"Four-A."

"Then that's all right. Mine are four-B, but nobody will know the difference."

The girl called Sally said, with some uncertainty, "If you're sure the dress will be all right, Harriet—"

"Of course it will be all right! It's the one I wore for those movie camera ads a couple of weeks ago. Don't you remember? It's white satin—with sort of a square neckline and a couple of rhinestone clips—" Suddenly she looked at her wrist watch. "Heavens! I've got to run or I'll be late." Turning to Toby, she said, "I'm going to be working for about three hours, but after that I'll be home. Can you come over to my apartment—say about 5 o'clock? You can try on the dress and if it needs to be taken in or anything there'll be time to fix it." She gave Toby the address. "If I'm not there," she finished, "wait for me."

"I'll wait," Toby promised. "I don't know how to thank you!"

"Oh, you can do something for me some time," the other said easily. "See you later. Goodbye, Sally—" The door closed on the words.

Toby said, "That's terribly nice of her. Why, she'd never even seen me until this morning!"

"Harriet's a good scout," the girl at the desk said. "Let's see—did I tell you the time you're to be at the studio?"

THE house in which Harriet Holm lived was in a row of houses, all much alike, on an east side street boasting, to the left and right, much more pretentious dwellings. Toby had no difficulty finding the address. She arrived a few minutes after 5, expecting that Harriet would be late. But she was mistaken; the door buzzed, releasing the lock, almost immediately after Toby pressed the bell.

She went inside, climbed the first flight of stairs. Then, from above, a head appeared over the bannister and a voice called, "I hope you don't mind climbing! It's the top floor—"

Toby went up two more flights. Harriet Holm, clad in a becoming blue negligee, met her at the top step. "Those steps are terrible," she said. "I've climbed them myself so often I'm beginning to feel like a mountain goat! But I keep the place because it's rather nice, once you get up here—"

It was rather nice. The apartment was a huge room across the front of the house with three windows looking down on the street. Pale yellow draperies had been drawn back so that none of the afternoon light was lost. There were book shelves, well filled, in the space between the windows. On one side a dark green davenport faced a coffee table on which was a copper tray and vermillion coffee set. In the center of the opposite wall a piece of Chinese embroidery hung. Low, comfortable chairs stood before the windows and a leather footstool was pushed against the wall. There were splashes of color—dull blue, gold, sea green, and henna—in cushions and pictures and bits of pottery.

Toby said, "How lovely!"

"Like the place?" Harriet asked. "Here—let me take your coat. Sit down and make yourself comfortable. You need a rest after that climb—"

But Toby, instead, went to the window and looked out.

"It's the nicest room I've ever been in," she said. "How you must love it here!"

"I do like it," Harriet admitted. "I spent more furnishing the place than I should have, but, thank goodness, it's paid now. Well, I suppose you want to see that dress—"

SHE crossed the room and opened a door. "Here's the other reason why I like this place. It's so hard to find an apartment with closet space."

Toby, following, let out a low exclamation. The door opened on a closet that was almost another room. Hanging on bars, closely packed together, were rows and rows of dresses, suits, coats.

"Are they all yours?" Toby exclaimed. "All these dresses?"

Harriet stepped into the closet, emerged with a white dress over her arm. "Yes," she said. "You'll find you have to have a lot of clothes if you do much modeling. The best-looking clothes I have are from fashion shows. After dresses have been worn in a show they usually let the models buy them for half price. That's how I got this white one—regular $29.50 and it cost me $19.75."

And then—just when Toby felt that she had been going about with her eyes closed. There were so many new things in this strange world—new people, new places, new things to do and to think about. She met other models, photographers, artists, advertising salesmen, art directors. She caught glimmers of the workings of that most complicated of modern businesses, advertising.

It was all absorbing, exciting. Toby worked hard and enjoyed it. Her eyes sparkled more gaily; her smile was brighter. Each morning she woke, eager to see what the day would bring. At night she dropped into bed, tired but content in the knowledge of a day's work done.

And then—just when Toby felt that she had never been so happy—something happened that changed everything.

CONSIDER THE CHILDREN

The appalling growth of the delinquent child problem has stirred Michigan to action. Every year from 5000 to 6000 children face municipal courts in that state, costing the people almost $1,000,000 to handle the cases—and foreshadowing a tragic future crime bill.

Now there is, under consideration, a "Michigan plan," for uniting churches, courts, schools, police, civic leaders and the state government in a sustained, co-operative drive to keep youth on the right track.

The Michigan experiment will be watched intently by the nation. There is no community without the delinquency problem, intensified a great deal by the depression. Perhaps the Michigan plan is not the answer, but it is significant because it recognizes the need for action.

HELEN OF TROY A FAKE?

The historians have reneged on us again. This time Robert P. Skinner, American ambassador to Turkey, reports to the State Department that excavations at the site of ancient Troy indicate that the legend of beautiful Helen and the 10 years' war have little foundation in fact.

Thus it appears the great Homer put one over on us for the sake of a good story. Where he got the "Helen stuff," as the glamorous background of the mythical war, nobody seems to know.

But whatever the historians prove or disprove, we shall doubtless go on reading Homer because Homer is readable. Much history, in fact, is dubiously founded on "good" stories such as those Homer told. And when we have separated the wheat from the chaff, we still have adequate factual history for the ages.

POSTMASTERS TO THE TEST

The test of how Congress really feels about patronage is now before that body. It is contained in the administration-endorsed measure to place first, second, and third-class postmasters under civil service.

For years all other postal employees have been selected through the merit system. The plan has worked well. Yet the most important position in the postoffice personnel has been left open as patronage bait in every town and city in the country.

Meanwhile, there has been a concerted trend toward the merit system in other federal departments. The public, for one thing, has demanded the competitive set-up. Thus there is, frankly, no way around this issue for the present Congress. If it wants to clean house politically, this is the golden opportunity.

THE GAME GOES ON

So Europe has returned to its favorite guessing game—the marital prospects of the former Prince of Wales. Time was when his name was linked at various intervals with those of glamorous women in a dozen countries. But the prince found none to his liking, apparently, and eventually the fervor of the guessing died down.

Now his majesty, in a message asking the Commons to restore the civil list, providing for royal household and personal expenses, mentions the "contingency" of marriage, and the world can start guessing all over again.

Whom will he marry—and when? Will she be of royal blood or a commoner? The British are lost for the moment in this favorite reflection.

Here is a pretty good safety valve for national sentiment. Certainly the tradition of royalty has buoyed the British through more than one crisis. And if gossip about the king can do its part now—then may the British make the most of it!

ARE WE BETTER OFF?

The subject of whether we are making progress, whether times are better now than they were in March 1933, will be a subject much discussed in the next few months. The answer will all depend upon the way one looks at the subject and how he measures prosperity and general welfare.

If we take as a measure the fear and the general income of the great mass of citizens, we will certainly admit that we are at present better off than we were at the beginning of 1933. There is not now near the fear among the great majority of people as to where the next week's income is coming from as there was in 1933. Money prices are rising; profits are generally higher; more people are provided for and confidence among the people is much greater than it was three years ago. With this interpretation, we would certainly agree that we are better off now than we were.

On the other hand, when we look at the change in the morale of our people and the things that have caused this change in confidence on the part of the great mass of people, the contention that we are better off now, is subject to very serious doubt. It is admitted, if we take only a short time view, that we are better off, but if we take a long time view, and consider the beliefs, and habits and morale of the people, and the increase in hate, envy, covetousness and bitterness, it is doubtful whether we can conclude that we are better off. The real measure of whether we are better off, is the morale of the people.

The morale of the people is the greatest asset any government can have. Three years ago, there were very few people who believed that they were entitled to a very high standard of living unless they were willing to adapt themselves to the wants of society. At that time, they did not think that society had to adapt itself to their individual needs. During the last three years, a great many people have come to the belief that society must adapt itself to individual needs; that they are entitled to a comfortable living whether they adapted themselves to the needs of society or whether they did not.

The number who have taken this attitude is evidenced by the more than 8 million checks that were sent out during the year 1935 to citizens of the government, who did not add to the national welfare. No one would have believed three years ago that in the short period of three years, over eight million people would be receiving assistance from the government. It is very easy to get people in the habit of receiving assistance from the government but it is extremely difficult to convince these people that they must adjust themselves to society and support themselves rather than have society support them. It was only a few years ago that one of the greatest presidents United States ever had, Grover Cleveland, said, "It is the duty of the people to support the government and not the duty of the government to support the people."

It is easy to understand why the present economic conditions appear to have improved over what they were three years ago. This change in attitude, which makes it the obligation of the Federal Government to support the people, of course, makes it a great deal easier for those who are now being supported to get along and feel comfortable and happy than it did three years ago. When the individual, feeling he must support himself or rely on the assistance of the local community, and when the local community was the judge, he was then compelled to make every possible effort to produce something because the neighbors knew that their standard of living was being reduced every time any individual was being helped. When, however, this support is coming from the Federal Government, the great mass of people think that it is infinitely large, infinitely powerful and has an infinite amount of resources, so that there need be no energy, no particular effort on the part of the unfortunate, to help himself. This opinion of the power and strength of the national government is NOT well founded because, while it is strong, its obligations are proportionately greater, so, in reality, it is not a bit stronger than the local community. In fact it is much less able to care for the unemployed because the demands are greater than they would be from the local community for assistance.

We are, of course, much better off when we are eating up the seed-corn—the savings of past generations; while we, by inflation and by borrowing, are taking the right to consume future production from every life insurance holder and every bank depositor and putting a mortgage on future production. There are about $14,000,000,000 in life insurance and saving accounts that will be destroyed, if we continue, by credit inflation, to dilute our monetary system.

One of the most serious changes in the past three years, which every student of history hesitates to think about, is the future consequences of the change in our money system. It was of course in very bad shape three years ago. But now when people loan money, they do not know whether the dollar they will get back will buy even a toothpick. Before 1933, they were confident their dollar could be converted into a commodity that would be accepted the world over without discount. This encouraged savings and the accumulation of capital which enabled the laborer to earn higher and higher wages. One cannot really compare our present condition with that of three years ago, until it is known how our money problem will be solved.

There are truly two ways of measuring whether we are better off now than we were three years ago. It depends entirely whether you take a long or a short time view as to what your answer will be.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Every day brings added evidence that if the tax on undistributed surpluses is enacted by congress, it may not be collected into the treasury next year but into the custody of the courts.

As a substitute for processing taxes declared illegal, there is a possibility that the tax on undistributed earnings may likewise be declared unconstitutional. Also, since the enforced collection of the tax may drive certain companies into receivership or bankruptcy, there will probably be application by those companies to the courts to restrain the collection of the new taxes just as there was with respect to processing taxes.

The legal situation can arise out of a number of concrete developments. Thus, many a corporation has issued bonds and has entered into a contract with the bondholders known generally as an "indenture." In such a document it is usually stipulated that the company must set aside certain amounts for the retirement of the bonds, or else it is provided that dividends shall not be paid unless there is maintained a specified ratio between current assets and current liabilities.

These arrangements have been required for many years as a method of insuring that there would be a certain cushion or safety for the investors. The officers or directors or stockholders of a corporation are bound by the "indenture" just as they are by any other contract lawfully entered into by them. Yet if they obey the demand of the government that earnings be distributed, they will be violating or impairing a contract. If they, on the other hand, attempt to withhold the surplus, the company then pays a prohibitive tax in the form of a penalty for doing that which the "indenture" preemptorily requires them to do.

If an indenture is violated, the bondholders have a right to foreclose, just as is the case with any mortgages in which the provisions are in any way impaired. Many "indentures" declare that the entire debt of the bond issue becomes due and payable the moment any provision is violated.

Take the case of a corporation with an outstanding bond issue of $5,000,000, payable at the rate of $250,000 a year. Such a company might be ordinarily earning from $500,000 to $750,000 a year, but it so happens that, in the year 1936, it will have earned only $300,000.

If the federal tax on undistributed earnings is about 33.3 per cent, it would mean that $100,000 would have to be paid to the federal government and $200,000 would be left to meet a sinking fund requirement of $250,000.

Unless the corporation happened to have a surplus from past years or possessed borrowing power, it might find itself in default and the bondholders might apply for a receivership and take over the property. In the same instance, however, let us suppose that the sinking fund or annual retirement is not a fixed sum, but, as is sometimes the case, the amount to be used for paying off the debt annually is expressed in percentages of earnings. Whose rights have priority—the bondholders who made a contract before the new tax was passed, or the federal government which comes in and to all intents and purposes brushes aside or impairs the contract?

It has been held by the Supreme Court that the tax authorities may not be arbitrary in their application of a tax. It has been held that certain steps by the federal government in pursuance of the taxing authority cannot conflict with other provisions of the Constitution that require "due process" if property is to be taken by the government. The query naturally arises whether the undistributed surplus tax by impairing contracts entered into in good faith by bondholders might be a taking of property belonging to bondholders without adequately compensating them for it.

But there is still another legal difficulty. Many states by their laws forbid the payment of dividends unless corporations have a certain credit position. Companies that are on the edge might find themselves "in hot water" in obeying the federal command to pay out their earnings in the form of dividends, especially if the cash resources of a company which has most of its capital in plant are to be drained for the purpose of meeting the tax collector's demands.

The proposed tax on "undistributed" surpluses or earnings is vulnerable from another constitutional aspect. A tax on net income or on net profits is measurable. This form of flat tax has been upheld. But the tax on "undistributed" earnings is a tax on discretion or rather a tax on the judgment of management, so that in effect the federal government uses the taxing power to control the act of management with respect to earnings.

The president's message and the opinions furnished by treasury officials will afford ample evidence that the idea behind the tax may be for revenue, but it is therein disclosed, on the other hand, that the revenue is to be obtained from individual stockholders only after management has been threatened with a penalty affecting its own judgment of what is or is not safe for a company to maintain in the way of reserves.

If the federal government can, by using the taxing power, tell corporations what percentage to maintain as a surplus and what percentage to pay out, it can tell a corporation how much profit it can make on an article and how much it can deduct as cost. The decisions of the Supreme Court show that "deductions" cannot be capriciously measured by either the taxpayer or the government, but must follow equitable rules and established practices of accounting.

What the federal government now says in effect is that it can control the disposition of profits by giving one corporation, which is well-heeled financially, an exemption from taxes because that institution is in a position to pay out its earnings in dividends, and by putting a penalty on another corporation in the same line of business, perhaps a competitor,

Little Renny's
Note Book

By LEE PAPE

The man from the fish and bird store bawled ma's goldfish today, being a kind of a round goldfish in a square aquarium, and ma couldn't hardly wait for pop to get home for him to see it, saying, "Isn't it a bewty, Willyum?"

I must say no fish ever impressed me more, pop said.

Not saying any had ever impressed him any, and after supper ma said, "I've been trying to think of a name for him all day, Willyum, but it must be a name appropriate to a fish, that's the first and last consideration."

I see your point, pop said. For instants Bruno and Jumbo and Kitty are all appropriate names, but not to a fish, so suppose we eliminate them, he said and ma said, "I never even considered them."

I notice you alluded to the fish as him, pop said. That's to bad if it was a her I could suggest a very appropriate name, I mean Finny, short for Josephine, he said, and ma said, "I like that very much, Willyum, it shows thawt."

And after all, the chances are even that it's a her, pop said.

Another feminine name is Goldy, short for goldfish, he said, and ma said, "yes, but suppose it's a him after all? I mean, if it's 6 to one that it's a her, it must be a half a dozen of the other that it's a him, she said."

Very well figured, Professor Einstein, pop said. The only appropriate male name I can think of is poppy. All fish are more or less pop eyed, aren't they? he said and ma said, "This one isn't and I don't want to hear anyone suggest otherwise. In fact I chose him largely because of it's eyes, she said."

The only safe solution is to choose a name appropriate to either sex, pop said. I suppose you wouldn't consider Poppy, for poor fish, he said, and ma said, "I certainly would not and you know it. I think while I'm waiting for an inspiration I'll just call him Fishy, she said."

Being what she's been doing, which is not well-heeled financially but must meet the requirements of an indenture under an outstanding bond issue.

Since to pay out the tax money in dividends might mean hardship and possible legal steps of a foreclosure nature, the corporation would doubtless petition for an order to restrain collection of the tax by the internal revenue bureau. Also, since the company might not be able to wait for a refund through the usual processes, the courts would doubtless feel that there was no adequate remedy at law and hence the tax money had better be paid into the custody of the court, as was the processing money. Once a restraining order of this type were granted, others would be forthcoming. The tax on undistributed earnings looks as if it has many legal barriers ahead. The way out is to retain the present law, which forbids the accumulation of "unreasonable" surpluses. This prevents tax evasion when properly enforced,

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A NOISY GOOD TIME

Mother took George along with her to take her friend who had a little boy very near George's age. While the two ladies talked over their teacups the two children sat on the floor in the next room playing trains. The trains were laid out on the floor, the two children sat opposite each other and screamed at the top of their voices. They could easily have been heard a block off. They were not quarreling, just telling each other.

"Isn't that awful?" said one mother to the other.

"Isn't it? Why do they yell like that? They're actually red in their faces."

Yell they do, and they have the idea that yelling is the beginning, middle and end of a good time. Make a joyful noise and you have a good time. The noise is joyous to nobody within hearing, but the noise makers seem to like it.

I visited a movie one afternoon. In the house were many children from tender years of infancy to the tougher ones of adolescence. The picture was nothing to get excited about, but even before it started one felt tension in the air. The children were prepared to explode at the first opportunity. They did. They shrieked and howled from the start to the finish. I take the finish for granted because I had to leave before it came. The noise was too much for me.

I have watched since then to see what the reactions of the children are to movies. The response to all of them seems habitual rather than immediate. The children are set to yell. Even when there is no occasion for it, they yell. They do not interpret the pictures correctly, missing the emotional appeal in the excitement of the action. They are accustomed to making a noise so as to give themselves the feeling of having a good time.

The same thing happens at parties for grown-ups. If there is a hint of quiet in the room, the guests talk in quiet tones, the hostess is uneasy and at once takes measures to "pep" up the party. There must be noise, high pitched, excited, boisterous, or the party is a failure. This is so in many many homes today. Most people seem afraid of quiet. Music must be loud, shrill, exciting. Talk must be the same. A listening attitude, a receptive mood, quiet enjoyment of good talk or good music is rare.

This is not good for children. They live at the peak of nervous energy. Their too shrill voices, their too quick movements, their unthinking, rapid behavior is accounted for in great part by the loud, noisy, excited entertainments they have. It would be better for all concerned to reduce the noise, the speed, and increase the quiet and the content of entertainments. This is true of the radio programs, the stage and screen offerings, and the home parties.

A screaming good time is not healthy for children. Why not have the parents select the entertainments their children enjoy. The health of the new generation would profit by it. ## Register Clearing House

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor, Register: Please allow me the opportunity to answer Mr. Kreidt, who does not seem to hold high opinions of my integrity.

First, he made the mistake which all persons make when they champion a fallacious argument, namely, endeavoring to win their case by vilifying the opponent. It was the forlorn hope of a lost cause.

Second, he manifested the usual psychological reaction to anything we do not understand, namely, condemning it without proper consideration. He passed judgment without knowledge of the evidence.

The following evidence will prove the Bible is misleading. We read, God made man in his own image; pronounced him good. A second account reads, man was made out of dust, woman from a rib. God became angry because they ate a special fruit, were banished from the garden, told to work for a living, faced a death penalty if they approached the sacred tree. The Bible implies God has not gotten over his rage, the children born into the world are field responsible for original sin. This may be Biblical, but it is neither reasonable nor Christian. The second account was the interpolation of the Priestly Caste, who lived upon the meagre earnings of the working class, whom they kept in ignorance.

God said, thou shalt not kill. Then He told the Jews to go, kill every man, woman, and child, destroy cattle, trees, and crops, fuscate the land of the enemy. Did God know His own mind, or was the trouble with the recorder, who wished to vindicate the Jewish national acquisitiveness, by making God responsible?

Jesus taught, sins were forgiven as we forgive one another. Paul said, forgiveness depended upon a human sacrifice. Orthodoxy calls this the Gospel of the Cross, but it is pure paganism. A substitute is impossible—we forgive ourselves.

Jesus said, God loves the world. Paul said, he is coming in flaming fire, taking vengeance on those who know not God, and obey not the gospel. The idea is so misleading, that we find Christians holding Prophetic Conferences, who gloat over the prospects of war. Human misery is a sign of the times. It foreshadows a glorious time, when the elect will have grandstand seats in the clouds, to view the bloody mess of the great tribulation. All this is grossly untrue. An insult to God and human intelligence. It is a perversion of the gospel of Christ.

To say that a solution of our precept world problems can be found in the Bible is questionable. The Bible is 94 per cent the product of Jewish idealism. Its worthlessness is proven by the fact that the Jew has no national existence. His economic and religious standards are so preposterous that for four thousand years, nations have revolted against their pernicious system of personal profits, privileged classes, private monopoly, and the resultant human bondage in slums and sweatshops. To depend upon the Bible is suicidal.

Jesus gave a new philosophy of life in a simple phrase: Love one another. This implied a definite attitude of mind towards our fellows. We must not be envious, proud, boastful, rude, intolerant, angry, suspicious, unjust, nor unreliable. We must be patient, kind, truthful, tolerant, thoughtful, hopeful, and confident. We can build heaven on earth as soon as we practice this idealism.

It is apparent, we must discard the Jewish book. Also the misinterpretations of the New Testament writers. The teachings of Christ must be the finality of truth.

Sincerely,
EDWIN O. COLBECK.

Kindly give me permission to say a few words in defense of our Bible. I was surprised that such a speech could be uttered in our Y. M. C. A., a Christian organization. Oh! why allow these dangerous speeches to be broadcast among our young people, and older ones too? There certainly are wolves in our midst as Mrs. Vogelzang says. I was thrilled when I read her article—thank God there are some who will stand on our Maker's words for that is all we can firmly stand on. God have mercy on anyone who would dare to attack his word. If they would believe His word and vote as they pray we never would have had the curse of liquor. It is time people were waking up.

Thanking you for this space.

25 Years Ago Today

MARCH 24, 1911
Only a small amount of celery remains in the fields in the Talbert vicinity where the late season is bringing a fancy price of 40 cents per dozen or $5 a crate, just double what it commanded earlier in the season. N. H. McCusiston reports that he will have something like 500 crates for shipment this week on the P. E.

Lost: Between Orange and Santa Ana, gold locket engraved "Verna." Lady's picture inside. Reward. Leave at Register office.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, the third league debate of the year between Santa Ana High school and Occidental Academy will be held on "Resolved: That national conservation of natural resources is preferable to state." Clifford Burr and Lloyd Davies, who rank among the best debaters in the history of the local high school, will present the negative.

Miss Thurza Marrs, bookkeeper at the Southern California Sugar company left this morning for a visit at Berkeley with the C. A. Young family.

FORESTRY FUNDS GRANTED COUNTY

Orange county's treasury has been enriched through the allocation of $215.75 to this area from the $140,753 in United States forest reserve funds to be distributed in the state. The allocation was announced by Controller Ray L. Riley.

In announcing the allocation Riley pointed out that, for once, the less heavily populated counties lead the metropolitan areas in the amount of money received under state allocation to political subdivisions. A large share of the money goes to counties which do not benefit so much, proportionately, in gasoline tax and other subventions.

Plumas county, one of the least heavily populated counties in the state, topped the list of allocations with $27,867 set aside as its share of the fund which represents 25 per cent of the amount received by the federal government for pasturage and other forest uses.

Sparsely settled Modoc county was second with $10,049 and Lassen county was third with $9,887. Los Angeles county was fourth with an allocation of $9,347. Counties which have no forests or pasturage did not participate in the subventions.

DeMolays Thank City for Chance To Hold Offices

Councilor Darrell Gaeb, recent acting mayor on De Molay day, together with Dr. Roy S. Horton, advisor of the Santa Ana chapter of De Molay, appeared personally before the council last night, thanking its members for the splendid cooperation given De Molays while they ran the city.

More than a dozen De Molays appeared at the session to show their appreciation of councilmanic cooperation. In a letter addressed to council, Dr. Horton said: "I am sure that this event brought about a better understanding between the city officials and youth of our community. The boys will have a finer appreciation of some of the problems which confront their city officers and they will in future, endeavor to lessen your burdens instead of adding to them. Every boy reports that the man whose office he filled for the day was a 'keen guy.' Believe it or not—no finer tribute can be paid any man by a boy."

Mayor Fred C. Rowland responded on behalf of the councilmen in a friendly statement of the pleasure he and other officials obtained in permitting the De Molays to run the city for a day.

WRITING TO SELL By Ethel Lockwood

WHY SHOULD I WRITE?

I think it is a good idea for each one of us to analyze our reasons for going into the writing business. Have we, in our lifetime, had experiences that might be enjoyed by book or magazine readers? Have we had educational or cultural advantages beyond those of the average person? Are we in a position to deal with facts that everyone should know? Do we have the happy faculty of making people laugh? Have we traveled in out-of-the-way places?

The fact that we want a new fur coat, or the old car is jolting to pieces under us, is not sufficient reason for trying to crash the publication field.

We ought to be sure we have something to offer the world in exchange for the money or fame we expect to get.

There seems to be an impression among the "don't knowers" that writing is a nice, respectable, high-toned profession; that a writer just sort of drifts through life in a rose-colored dream, being liked and kow-towed to; and that romance stalks the writer like a bill collector.

Nice Profession

Writing is a nice, respectable profession—that's all. It isn't particularly romantic, and the writer who drifts doesn't eat, unless he's had a rich Aunt Minnie. There is no line of work that takes more out of a person. There is no line of work that requires closer attention.

You're never really free from your work if you are a writer. That pet idea may spring upon you in the middle of the night. Then you have to steal out of bed without waking your bed-fellow, hunt for the lead pencil you left lying by your typewriter, and at the risk of catching pneumonia, get that idea down on paper.

Families and relatives are notoriously hostile to writing members of their families.

"Of all the crazy things!—writing at THIS hour of the night!" Who hasn't heard that clatter call from a dear one who didn't understand?

"Don't Knower"

The "don't knower" also thinks writing is an EASY way to make money.

Heaven help us, it is not. We catch an idea—or perhaps we hatch one—then we know no peace until we have created a set of characters to go with it. After the characters come the plot—and here's where we really sweat. Once the plot seems water-tight, we proceed with the first draft. Then we revise, and write again. If we are lucky, the revision of the second draft paves the way to the final typing. And after the typing—the judgment! Will it sell or won't it? Off it goes in the mail, and immediately we open the shutters of our souls for another idea, and go through the whole rigmarole again.

If that isn't work, I'd like to know what is?

Certainly we ought to KNOW we have something worthwhile to say before we embark upon such a stormy voyage. Let's think about it before we write another word.

Adopt Ordinance To Bar "Fly-By-Night" Car Dealers

COUNCIL ACTS TO SAFEGUARD AUTO BUYERS

To keep "fly-by-night," fraudulent automobile dealers from coming to Santa Ana, selling hundreds of "caravan" cars and quickly leaving, perhaps to repeat the sales method frequently, to the detriment of legitimate, established dealers, city council last night adopted an emergency ordinance and set a permit fee for newcomers at $200.

The ordinance explains that "there is now threatening an influx of irresponsible automobile dealers into Santa Ana," whose habit is to set up a temporary place of business "and after defrauding the public," skipping out immediately.

B. J. MacMullen, one of six or seven local automobile dealers who appeared before the councilmen at an informal meeting recently, explained as spokesman for the dealers that it was not their desire to interfere in the least with any legitimate dealer who wishes to establish a business in Santa Ana, but only to head off the would-be illegitimate ones.

Ordinance Provisions

Highlights of the ordinance, effective immediately, on publication, include the following points: Every new applicant for a permit to conduct an automobile sales business must post $200 to defray expenses of carrying on an investigation into the applicant's sincerity of purpose—that part of the $200 not used in the investigation to be returned to the applicant when and if his request is turned down.

Granted permits must be renewed yearly, fee $5. Notice of application for permit shall be posted so that any objectors may object. Permit fee for present dealers is set at $5 per year, with requirement that they file within the next 30 days, but without necessity of paying the $200 investigation fee, there being no investigation of established dealers. Whoever fails for more than 15 days after expiration of his automobile dealer's permit at end of first year, to apply for renewal, shall pay a penalty amounting to 10 per cent of the amount of the permit fee. Discontinuing business for more than 90 days automatically cancels permit. Complete records of purchases, consignments, sales or exchanges of cars shall be kept and made available to the city clerk.

An automobile dealer may not sell a car from any place other than the established business headquarters; that is, a salesman may not take a car to his home and sell it from there. Revocation of permit for ordinance violations shall be had only after public hearing by the council.

To banish the sale of "caravan" cars as "new," it is unlawful to advertise or offer for sale as new, any car which has traveled more than 100 miles on its

Inventor Of Alphabet To Speak Here

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, the man who invented an alphabet and is called "the apostle of literacy" is to speak twice in Santa Ana tomorrow according to an announcement made today by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, minister of the First Congregational church.

Dr. Laubach was originally booked as speaker at the Wednesday Night Study-Dinner at the Congregational church tomorrow evening. A number of the ministers of other Santa Ana churches expressed the desire that he might also speak at an afternoon interdenominational meeting so that members of other churches might have an opportunity to hear him.

DR. FRANK LAUBACH

The Rev. Schrock was able to secure Dr. Laubach for such an afternoon address and he will speak at the First Congregational church, Wednesday, March 25, at 2:30 p. m. This meeting will be under the auspices of the Commission on Missions of the Ministerial Association.

Dr. Laubach invented an alphabet for the Moros of the Philippine Islands. He was so successful in teaching the Moros that he has adapted his system to 30 tongues and dialects.

Dr. Laubach also is an authority on the history and problems of people of the Philippines. He is the author of a number of books and is a speaker of unusual ability. "Dr. Laubach is a man of international reputation," said the Rev. Schrock today. "He is to be in Southern California only one week and Santa Ana is most fortunate in being able to have him for two addresses."

own wheels, and all such used cars must be labeled as such on their windshields, in letters at least two inches high, and each sales contract must bear the words "used motor vehicle" in letters as large as the largest letters appearing elsewhere in the contract.

Advertising Regulated

To forestall use of "come-on" advertisements in newspapers, or other medium, whereby an "ad" for a specific car which is not available, or which has already been sold, is allowed to continue, a provision barring the practice is included. Maximum penalty for violation of the ordinance is set at $300 fine, 90 days in county jail, or both, for first offense.

Last section of the ordinance, declaring an emergency exists, points out that "there has now commenced and is threatening an influx of irresponsible automobile dealers into this city, who set up temporary places of doing business and after defrauding the public, immediately leave the city of Santa Ana and the persons who have been defrauded have no means of recovery for the fraud perpetrated upon them."

PUBLICATIONS BY FINE ARTS PRESS SHOWN

Fifteen publications prepared by the Santa Ana Junior college Fine Arts press are on exhibit at Bower's museum on North Main street, in Santa Ana, it was announced today by Thomas E. Williams, printing instructor.

Edited by various county writers and one or two outside authors, the volumes were printed and designed at the high school print shop. These books, numbering altogether more than 6700 copies and an average of 447 copies per issue, were sent, however, to other concerns capable of bookbinding. The lack of necessary equipment made it necessary to ship the books out to be covered, but the designs were formulated at the shop for these issues.

The publications, which feature Orange county life in the early days and poems with woodcuts accompanying them, have become noted and much sought after throughout the United States, it was stated.

Prices Quoted

An average of $6.53 per copy edition or a total of more than $100 for the one copy of each volume, is the average price of these publications. Prices per book as high as $25 and $20 show the value which book hunters and collectors estimate the work of the press.

The edition selling for $25 was first sold in 1933 and was edited by Henry R. Wagner. His book, "Spanish Exploration in the Straits of Juan de Fuca," is a record of the achievements of the Spanish explorers of the Northwest coast of America. This was a special edition of 20 copies. "Chinichinich," a reprint of the book published in 1846 by Father Geronimo Boecana, concerning the life and beliefs of the Acacchem Indians who lived near San Juan Capistrano, was published in 1933. This edition of 500 copies was annotated by John P. Harrington of the Smithsonian Institution and sold for $20.

The first of two editions, "Camino Viejos," edited by Terry E. Stephenson of Santa Ana depicts the tales found in the history of California of special interest to those who love the valleys, the hills, and the canyons of Orange county, its traditions and landmarks. Tales of the Santa Ana mountains, the Santiago, the Trabuco, their canyons, and their hills from the days of the Padres down through the years when the pioneers built their first cabins among the oaks and sycamores, is the theme of "Shadows of Old Saddleback," printed in 1930 along with his first volume.

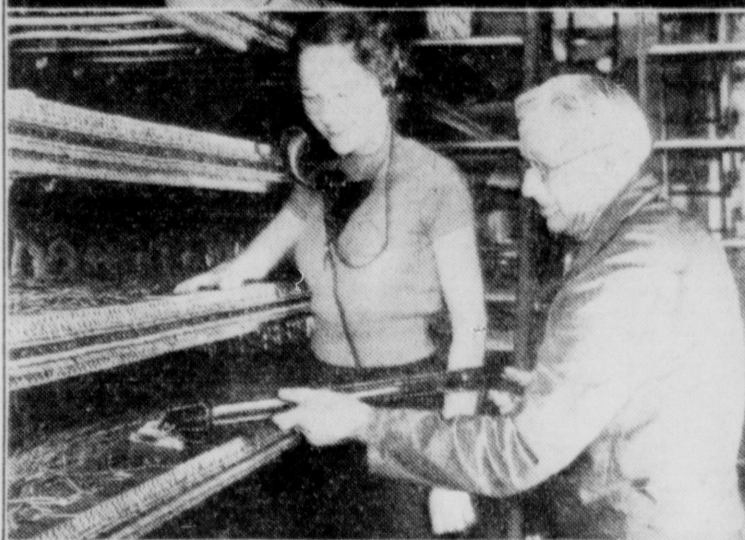

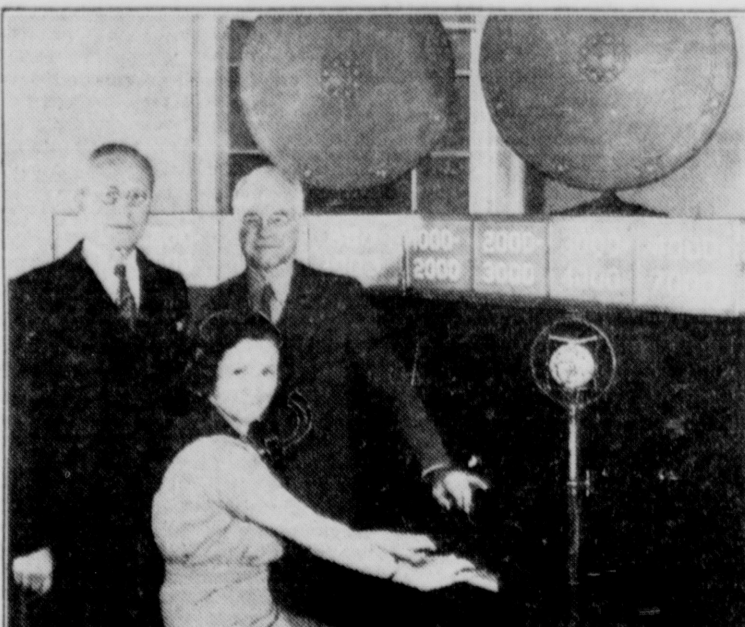

The purpose of the exhibit is to use worthwhile material in teaching the art of book printing, to employ as many processes as possible, and to have a real understanding of each. The printing department is regarded as a laboratory where the printing methods, processes, and materials are analyzed through actual use.

LEECING TO BUILD MEDICAL BUILDING

Dr. Horace W. Leecing's request for special rezoning of the location at 843 North Broadway for construction of a one-story medical building, was officially approved by the city planning commission last night and informally approved by the council. No objections were made at the public hearing conducted by the council last night.

TELEPHONE SHOW TO OPEN

GRANTS PERMISSION FOR NEW RESIDENCE

When no objections were raised to construction of a two-family residence building on the north side of West Tenth street, about 200 feet west of Broadway, city council last night granted permission for the construction under special zoning.

The rezoning request was made by Nellie L. Foote, Long Beach, in connection with the Santa Ana Realty company's recent development program at the location, in which permission was granted for an apartment house construction. The two-family residence building plan calls for four or five rooms for each family plus four-car garage, the residence to be 36x40 or 36x44 feet in dimension. The development program was also approved by the planning commission.

SUNSET BEACH, March 24.—Having contacted radio stations in 75 foreign countries during experiments conducted in Sunset Beach, nine amateur radio operators have returned to their homes in Los Angeles. The boys are entered in a world distance contest. Reception here is said to be ideal.

TALBERT HOME PLANNED

TALBERT, March 24.—A modern residence is to be built on the Max Hoeptner ranch, one mile north of Talbert. Work on the house is expected to begin within 10 days.

CITY WORKERS STEP NEARER CIVIL SERVICE

Moving a step nearer to civil service for Santa Ana police and firemen, city council last night instructed Police Commissioner Bruns, Fire Commissioner Penn and City Attorney Lew Blodgett to confer with special committees of police and firemen and the fire and police chiefs over a proposed civil service ordinance recently completed by the city attorney.

The ordinance, which has been brought out for consideration tabled for several years, recently again, and revised after a study by police and fire committees of "fine points" in civil service ordinances of Los Angeles, Long Beach, San Diego and other California cities. If adopted, the ordinance will place all police and firemen but Police Chief Floyd W. Howard, who holds elective office, under civil service.

SURGEON TO TALK AT KIWANIS CLUB

Dr. Isaac Jones, Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, will be the speaker tomorrow at the weekly meeting of Santa Ana Kiwanis club, in James cafe. He will talk on "The Prevention of Deafness."

Dr. Jones who is president of the Ear, Nose and Throat Study of Los Angeles, and an author of note, has achieved considerable fame in the medical world. During the World War he rose to high rank in the army and, in his special field, has received the highest honors not only in America but in Europe.

E. T. Mateer will serve as program chairman tomorrow.

In addition to the talk by Dr. Jones the Audiometer, recently purchased by the club for use in the schools, will be exhibited. The device was obtained for use in the schools to assist the officials in accurately determining the hearing defects among the school students so that more adequate provisions

Landowners Are Warned To Pay Tax

The land shark will get your property if you don't look out! That was the warning issued today by County Auditor W. T. Lambert to taxpayers who have failed to redeem their delinquent property, thinking they can safely let the delinquent taxes "ride" and pay up at some later time.

While there is a moratorium law preventing sale of tax-deeded property by the state, this law applies only to property sold to the state for taxes since 1925. Any property deeded before that time can be sold, Lambert pointed out.

Quick in Law

Not only that, he warned, but there is a quirk in the law which, although the owner is required to pay up all back taxes before he can redeem it, permits the state to sell the property to some other purchaser on any basis agreed, including cancellation of any portion of the back taxes desired.

"This may seem unjust but it is the law," said Lambert, "so taxpayers should not be lulled by the idea that they can safely allow their delinquent taxes to ride along."

A further advantage in paying delinquent taxes now, the auditor pointed out, is the law permitting payment of back taxes in installments over a period of 10 years. This law, however, will expire April 20, after which date it will be necessary to pay penalties of one per cent per month from the date of delinquency, which may extend back several years. By paying before April 20, the taxpayer need pay but the actual delinquent tax, plus interest extending back to 1934, and spread this out over ten years.

Moratorium Law

The moratorium law, section 3817-D, prevents sale by the state of tax deeded lands, deeded since 1925. This law expires in 1937, when that protection will be removed, unless the legislature re-enacts the measure. After that, any delinquent taxes may be sold by the state to any person who wishes to bid on it. Any such bidder is not bound, as the original owner would be, to pay up all the back taxes, with delinquent penalties and costs.

may be made to reduce them to a minimum.

JAYSEE PATRON GROUP TO HEAR TALK ON TAXES

Arthur F. Corey, president of the California Teacher's association, will lead a discussion on the subject "Taxation" at the monthly gathering of the Santa Ana Junior College Patrons association, it was announced today by D. K. Hammond, director of the institution. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock tonight in Bungalow A on the jaysee campus.

Any person interested in the proposed changes in the tax system is cordially invited to attend the discussion of this vital question. Mr. Corey has made quite an extensive study on the question and promises to have an interesting debate on the subject.

Interesting Speaker

As assistant to the county superintendent of schools office, Mr. Corey has become a noted and interesting speaker, it was said. He represented the California association recently at St. Louis, where a superintendent's convention was held. The speaker was formerly of Buena Park where he was district superintendent of schools.

The discussions of any of the meetings of the Patrons association is open to any one who is interested in furthering the activities of the organization and join with the parents and instructors in all membership activities.

Presiding over these monthly groups held at the institution is Mrs. Neal Beisel, president of the organization.

A musical program will be presented by the junior college women's octette lead by Miss Myrtle Martin, head of the music department there.
